VANCOUVER CHINESE INFORMERS CREATE UNION COURT TOLD

Defence Counsel Charges Stool Pigeons' Organization With Making "Racket" of Police Raids On Alleged Gaming Houses—Detectives Say Situation Reacts to Officers' Benefit

VANCOUVER, Nov. 26 (P).—Chinese informers have formed a "stool pigeons' union" and have been making a "racket" of police raids on alleged gaming houses in the Chinese quarter of Vancouver, J. R. Nicholson, defence counsel, charged in police court today at the hearing of Low Hou, alleged gambling house keeper.

Detectives testified the charge was substantially correct but that the situation had reacted to the benefit and success of the police in raiding gaming houses.

SYSTEM EXPLAINED
The officers, under questioning by Mr. Nicholson, said they had heard that operators of the house in question had been approached by Chinese "stool pigeons" who demanded money for immunity from raids. Most of the informers were in anti-gaming work in Chinatown were volunteers put forward by rival factions of gamblers who wished to put opposition houses out of business, evidence indicated.

Detective W. J. McFarlane stated the "stool pigeons" had formed a "union" but explained that "non-union" informers were constantly coming forward and members of the "union" often betrayed their own fellows. He said the situation made it easier for police to obtain evidence.

POLICE TELL OF RAID
Detectives who raided a Chinese club November 9 and November 16 told of seizing gaming paraphernalia and described an alarm and electric clock system which guarded it and made their raid difficult.

Low Hou, charged with acting as keeper of the place at the time of the first raid, was fined $200 on pleading guilty, while Chow, who pleaded guilty to being keeper on the second occasion, was sentenced to serve two months in jail. Twenty-three other Chinese arrested in the gaming house November 9 were fined $5 each, and twenty-four taken into custody in the second raid were ordered to pay $3 each.

BRITAIN WOULD GIVE SUPPORT

Favors Canadian Proposal To Ban Export of Oil And Coal to Italy

LONDON, Nov. 26 (P).—Great Britain, it was indicated in official circles today plans to continue her support of the proposal to add an embargo on oil and coal to the list of sanctions against Italy.

Despite postponement of the League sanctions committee's meeting, officials said, Britain's policy remains unchanged. The Government expects the committee of eighteen to meet next week.

It was explained that the Government demands enforcement of sanctions and that internal troubles in France had only delayed the sanctions committee's meeting.

AGREED IN PRINCIPLE

Official quarters mentioned that Britain already has agreed in principle to the proposal at Geneva of Dr. W. A. Riddell, of Canada, that coal and oil be added to the list of products not to be sent to Italy, when such an embargo could be made effective. The only decision to be made, it was said, is when such sanctions should be put into effect.

The oil situation in particular and the enforcement of sanctions in general were understood to have been discussed at a meeting today of leading members of the Cabinet.

SAFE AFTER GRIM FIGHT

Man and Wife Nearly Starve During Thirty-Day River Trip

WRANGELL, Alaska, Nov. 26 (P).—Half-starved and weary, Walter Simpson and his 100-pound wife were safe here today, after battling thirty days to reach Wrangell from Telegraph Creek, B.C., a 125-mile river trip which they had expected to make in one day.

The couple, for whom considerable anxiety had been felt since they left Telegraph Creek on October 27, arrived last night. Their rations ran short after the first week, and they lived on four slices of bread a day the last five days of their grueling voyage down the Stikine River.

FACED MANY HARDSHIPS

They ran into many ice jams, one of which was seventeen miles long, and had to pull their twenty-two-foot outboard motorboat over the ice, and relay 600 pounds of baggage by sled. Later Simpson found a crocodile saw in an old cabin and cut his boat down to eight feet, leaving the engine and gasoline behind.

At Great Glacier they had to abandon the boat because of four inches of slush. They trudged on, pulling a sled until they reached the mouth of the river, where Simpson found and repaired an old skiff. He made oars from driftwood and they towed to Berger's ranch on Fern Island, where word of their safety was sent through an amateur wireless station.

SEATTLE, Nov. 26 (P).—Three safecrackers, surprised in a beer parlor early today, shot their way to freedom, killing Patrolman Trent A. Sickles and seriously wounding Patrolman Theodore E. Stevens.

The neighbor, Fred Winkler, said he believed one of the robbers was wounded by two shots the officers fired.

The document, not yet made public generally in Addis Ababa, was directed chiefly to the provinces, where it was expected to have an electrifying effect on the highly religious populations. It reveals that for the first time in Ethiopian history the Abuna will not go to the front, but will remain at Addis Ababa for the duration of the war.

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Nov. 27 (CP-Cable via Reuters).—New Zealanders went to the polls today in their first general election since 1931, when the National Government was formed to deal with a financial crisis.

Prime Minister G. W. Forbes and Finance Minister J. G. Coates are again fighting at the head of a United Nationalist party on a platform of recovery through financial stability.

The Labor party, led by Michael J. Savage, advocates a system of guaranteed prices and state control of credit and currency. Labor is expected to make gains, especially in urban constituencies.

THINKS STORM HALTS SIGNALS

Magnetic Disturbance Is Blamed For Long Silence of Antarctic Explorers

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (P).—Magnetic storms which would limit the range of their wireless signals were given today as the probable reason for the three-day silence of Lincoln Ellsworth, Antarctic explorer, and Herbert Hollick-Kenyon, his Canadian pilot.

Guy Hutscheson, one of the four wireless experts who accompanied Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd to Little America, said the magnetic storms would make wireless signals audible for only a few miles.

Ellsworth and Hollick-Kenyon have not been heard from since a wireless message on Saturday morning to their base ship, the Wyatt Earp.

SELDOM LAST LONG
Because magnetic storms "seldom last more than twenty-two hours," Hutscheson said that if Ellsworth is not heard from soon, "I will be inclined to think he has crashed, or the transmitter has gone completely out of commission."

A message from the Wyatt Earp to The New York Times and The North American Newspaper Alliance said members of the expedition believed Ellsworth and his pilot were encamped on the Bay of Whales, their destination, when they took off from Dundee Island.

Brazilian Government Expects Early Suppression of Revolt in Two States

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 26 (P).—Loyal Federal troops drove rebels from their stronghold at Socorro, state of Pernambuco, today, the Government was advised.

This important victory, the Government claimed, gave it control of Pernambuco, one of two revolt-torn states in the northeast.

Federal troops were marching on Natal, state of Rio Grande do Norte. A bombing squadron was ordered to accompany them.

PREPARE FOR BATTLE
Insurgents driven from Socorro, one of three important towns held since Sunday by the Leftist revolutionaries, fled northwest to Recife (Pernambuco) and prepared for a stand, the Governor of Pernambuco reported.

Socorro fell after twenty-two hours of fighting. Estimates of the number of dead in the uprising, which the Government says is Communist-inspired, ranged from forty to sixty.

OFFICER IS ARRESTED
Lieut. Lauro Fontoura was arrested early today on a charge of attempting to incite a revolt, in conjunction with the northeastern uprising.

Government officials claimed that Natal and Macayhya in Rio Grande do Norte, were the only important points held by rebels and that they would be dislodged shortly.

Decreasing Profits in Gasoline the Result Of More Competition

Tariff Board Chairman Says Business So Good in Canada It Attracted Other Companies—Imperial Oil Sales Manager Testifies

OTTAWA, Nov. 26 (P).—Imperial Oil, Limited, built up an enormous business throughout Canada on a one-cent tariff and as soon as the tariff was increased to 2 1/2 cents in 1930 it began to be less profitable, chairman George Sedgewick, of the tariff board, commented today at the gasoline investigation.

"The reason was," continued the tariff board chairman, "it (the business) looked so good it brought other people in to compete."

Marketing facilities could not be used as the basis of protection, Mr. Sedgewick claimed when Imperial Oil officials said the tariff was needed to hold their vast distributing organization.

SPECIAL DISCOUNTS

Imperial Oil has special discounts for large purchasers, but these do not discriminate against small buyers, it was insisted by A. E. Halverson, sales manager for the company. Co-operative organizations in Alberta, he said, "have a contract with us as good or better than the McColl-Frontenac Company." The average price paid by Saskatchewan co-operatives was as good as that paid the McColl Company.

Many large companies gave quantity discounts, Halverson said, but he did not know if the practice extended to American oil companies.

C. H. O'Halloran, representing the British Columbia Government, later continued examination of Mr. Halverson.

The Imperial official insisted that his company needed the gasoline tariff of two and a half cents a gallon in view of the cheap gasoline in Los Angeles. This could be moved to Vancouver as low as eleven cents a barrel. As far as he knew, there had been no imports for some time.

MADE MONEY IN B.C.

The Imperial Company, Mr. Halverson said, made money on its British Columbia operations last year and he promised to table confidential figures. The company had lost money for three years in the three Prairie divisions.

Mr. O'Halloran said oil companies used freight rates as an additional tariff protection. For instance, freight and the freight surcharge were added to competitive prices at refinery doors. These charges added to the two and a half cents tariff, made a total protection of seven and three-quarters cents in the Maritimes.

The Imperial Oil official denied the charge and again said the exact figures would be given confidentially to the board.

The British Columbia lawyer returned to gasoline prices today in Ottawa and Victoria. Disregarding Provincial taxes, the Ottawa price was seventeen and a half cents and the Victoria twenty-three.

TRY TO MEET PRICES

Mr. Halverson said the Ottawa price a year ago was twenty-one and a half cents. Since then a price war had continued and "we try to meet competitive prices when they become serious."

R. T. Graham, representing Saskatchewan, said co-operative organizations in that province could not buy ethylized gasoline. The witness agreed, but claimed this was because American patent owners refused to sell to anyone not a refiner and imposed this on Imperial Oil.

The Saskatchewan lawyer said ethyl gasoline could be purchased in the United States and if the Canadian tariff was removed could be imported without licences or anything else.

3. It was announced that Premier Wang Ching Wei, recently victim of an attack by a would-be assassin, would be unable to return to office for at least five months. In view of Premier Wang's known pro-Japanese leanings, this was interpreted in some quarters to mean Nanking was embarking upon an anti-Japanese course.

TO GO AHEAD

7. In Tokyo it was indicated that Japanese military were determined to go ahead with their autonomy plans for North China, now confining themselves to the slogan "two provinces and two cities," referring to Hopeh and Chahar, and Peiping and Tientsin.

TO MEET WITH FORCE

NANKING, Nov. 27 (P).—A high Government official told The Associated Press today the Chinese Government had determined to meet with force any move to impose the autonomy programme on the territory south of the borders of Hopeh and Chahar Provinces.

(Yin Ju Keng, administrative commissioner of the North China demilitarized zone, already had proclaimed an autonomous state in twenty-five counties in East Hopeh and Chahar Provinces.)

The nation's militarists, meeting in Nanking, have adopted a plan to defend Shantung and Honan Provinces against encroachment from the Southern Hopeh border, the Government informant stated.

FIRST LINE OF DEFENCE

This border has been adopted as the first line of defence against any autonomy movement from the north—political or military—as asserted.

These disclosures were followed by the announcement of Tang Yu Yen, Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs, that China will negotiate with Japan for a fundamental readjustment of Sino-Japanese relations.

The Central Government is seeking to hold the support of the Shantung governor, Han Fu Chu, by entrusting him with the defence of the Northern Honan and Shantung frontiers, and promising him money and supplies, if needed, to stem invasion.

Han Fu Chu of late has been wooed assiduously by the Japanese. "Arrangements with Japan prevent us from doing anything in a military way to prevent detachment of Hopeh and Chahar Provinces if Sung Chieh Yuan (commander of the Peiping-Tientsin Garrison) weakens," said the official. "But any threat to Nanking sovereignty south of that area will not be tolerated."

POSSIBLE FRICTION

He declared that danger of hostilities lies in the possibility of friction between the Hopeh armies of Sung Chieh Yuan and Shang Chen, governor of the province. Such hostilities, he added, might provide Japan with a pretext for invading the province.

Recent conferences between Yen Hsi Shan, Governor of Shansi Province, and Chiang Kai Shek, Central Government military overlord, have improved hopes that Yen will co-operate in checking the spread of autonomy westward into Shansi and Suiyan. ACCUSED OFFICER TAKES OWN LIFE

Seattle Policeman, Suspected of Burglary, Breaks Neck by Diving From Bunk

SEATTLE, Nov. 26 (P).—Patrolman R. C. McWade, fifty-three, one of seven police officers held as burglary suspects, died tonight of injuries which Chief of Police Walter B. Kirtley said were self-inflicted in a city jail cell.

McWade died a few minutes after an emergency operation had been performed on his spine.

Kirtley said McWade was one of six officers who had confessed to participating with a National Guard sergeant and a county road employee, in at least twenty burglaries. McWade broke his neck by diving from an upper bunk to the cell floor.

elicit secret information and photographs from him, and divulged nothing which could aid an enemy. He only sent her, at her request, photographs cheaply obtainable at any shop.

When arrested on his recent return from Germany, Gortz was found to have pictures of Manston airplanes and airdrome mailed to the girl at a Berlin address under the name of Lewis. Gortz also had letters young Lewis had written to the girl.

The court dwelt at length on the acquaintance that began when the girl, in claret-colored riding trousers, green pullover sweater and white scarf, stood distressed beside her bike. On one occasion, the evidence brought out, the girl volunteered to pay half Lewis' expenses for a holiday in Germany, but he declined.

"MATERIALS FOR NOVEL"

Gortz, tall, clean-shaven, stood erect in court and firmly denied the charges against him. He protested that he was a novelist and an officer of the German air force during the Great War, now gathering material for a novel. In the house at Broadstairs, the prosecution said, searchers found an application for employment in the German Intelligence Service, allegedly written by Gortz.

Another letter, read to the court after spectators had been sent out of the room, was described as Gortz' application for service in the German Air Ministry. In this letter, court attachés said, Gortz said he met many British and United States aviation officers during the war and with his "drawing room tones" had been able to get from them whatever information he wanted.

TURNOVERS RUMORED

While rumors were rife throughout the province of possible turnovers, the Canadian Press confirmed through returning officers that the Taschereau Government was still leading with forty-seven seats, and one Independent Liberal, to forty-two seats for the Opposition.

Tomorrow the Government will hold its first Cabinet meeting since the election, under the presidency of Premier Taschereau. The Premier announced he would have a "declaration" to make concerning the results of the election and possibly on the course he intends to steer. Mr. Taschereau intends to gaps in his official family, due to defeat of Hon. Irene Vautrin, colonization, and Hon. C. J. Arcand, labor.

DISPUTE ACCLAMATION

The Duplessis-Gouin groups were still determined to contest at least three seats—Montreal Mercier, Montreal St. Lawrence and Montreal St. Louis. In Montreal St. Louis they claim the acclamation given Peter Bercovitch was irregular.

On the other side of the slate, the Liberal organizers announced they would contest election of Paul Gouin A.L.N. leader, over Walter Reed in L'Assomption, and of Henry L. Auger, leader of the Montreal City Council, in Montreal St. James, where he defeated Mr. Vautrin.

Says Outsiders Are Taking Over B.C. Resources

A great part of the natural resources of the province have been taken over by outsiders owing to the loss of the pioneering spirit in British Columbians that one time led them to find out more about their province, according to Rev. O. T. Hodgson, Alert Bay, who was registered at the Dominion Hotel, yesterday.

Lamenting this condition, Mr. Hodgson declared that the fisheries in his parish, the only industry of the district, was virtually controlled by the Japanese, and that the majority of the mining and lumber resources of British Columbia were operated by United States interests.

SEASONAL GAIN SEEN IN RELIEF

Figures Show Addition to Provincial Rolls Slighter This Fall

Provincial relief lists rose by 2,280 individuals in October, with a total of 79,107 persons directly or indirectly aided, provincial reports disclosed yesterday. This total compared with 80,307 individuals assisted in the corresponding month last year, and marked the first increase this year through seasonal shut-down in basic industries.

The point of lowest registration in the last three years was reached in September, with 76,827 persons listed, or 50,000 individuals below the peak of registration at March, 1933, when 128,000 were in receipt of aid.

In October 16,417 heads of families, 12,573 single men in cities and unorganized territory, 4,273 men in national defence camps were recorded, with a total of 45,844 dependents.

EMPLOYMENT GAINS

While some seasonal increase is expected in the next few months, due to cessation of periodical operations, the addition to the rolls is not expected to be as heavy this winter.

Lumber, mines, fisheries and agriculture all report some gains in employment for the current season, while in some ridings in the province relief has been virtually eliminated.

The task of segregation of the lists into employable and non-employable persons is continuing, in preparation for some recasting of the relief system unofficially expected next year.

told the Emperor. They proceeded in the path of the Italians, hoping to cut them off before they could reach Italian Somaliland.

The Ogaden field general said he had received all this information from native runners who had come to Jijiga from the south.

STARTING POINT

The Italians already have withdrawn as far as Walwal and Wardar, Nasibu asserted. These two settlements were virtually the starting points of the Italian invasion in the southeast nearly two months ago.

At one time Gen. Graziani's troops were reported as far north and west as Asas Baneh, more than 150 miles farther into Ethiopia territory than the area where they are now said to be digging in.

FLANKING TACTICS

Military circles here attributed the reported Italian retreat in large part to the operations of Ras Desta Demtu and his army of 100,000 warriors in the extreme southeast.

The government previously had issued a communique telling of the Italian abandonment of Gorrahe and Gerigubi.

"Under pressure by the Ethiopians," said the announcement, "the Italians retreated, leaving behind five trucks and their own dead. The flight was caused by an encircling movement by Ras Desta, Ethiopian commander, and his forces moving out of Dolo toward Lugh." (Lugh is in Italian Somaliland.)

Advices from Harar said General Rodolfo Graziani's Pan and Webb Shibeit River forces were caught between Ras Nasibu's three-pronged advance from the north and Ras Desta Demtu's forces in the extreme southeast.

OPPOSE RETREAT

Ras Desta Demtu, Emperor Haile Selassie's son-in-law, has invaded Italian Somaliland with part of his army of 100,000 warriors, who are prepared to cut off the Fascist retreat, dispatches said.

Prince Ismael Daoud, of Egypt, is completing installation of two hospitals at Harar and a number of first-aid "flying squadrons," equipped to move rapidly to the scene of fighting as the need arises, wireless messages said.

The government confirmed the report from Dessay that Gen. Gugua Iluyu, acting-governor of Wollo Province, has been killed. His death was said to be accidental, but no details were revealed.

NEW ORLEANS HAS TEMPORARY DROUGHT

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 26 (P).—A break in a huge steam pipe at the New Orleans purification plant tonight cut off the water supply of this city of nearly half a million for an hour and one-half.

WARD LIBERALS HOLD ELECTION

Dr. Hugh Clarke Is Chosen President—Major H. M. McGiverin Speaks

R. T. Elliott, K.C., was elected honorary president of Ward Two Liberal Association last evening during the annual meeting held at Liberal headquarters on Government Street.

Dr. Hugh Clarke was chosen president; A. E. Humphries, vice-president; Malcolm McPhail, secretary, and Miss Edith Messerschmidt, treasurer.

Delegates elected to the central executive were Mrs. P. McLaren, Mrs. Lucille Webb, Edward Rainaldi and Mr. Humphries. Those chosen to serve as the ward executive were E. Murray, Edward Menzies, Jack Taylor, Mrs. E. Callan, Mrs. E. J. Heady and Mrs. J. A. Post.

WANT SOMETHING DONE

In a short address C. Jack McDowell declared that Canadians voted Liberal because they wanted something done. He asserted that the C.C.F., Social Credit and Technocracy contained the elements of Liberalism, which stood for constitutional progress. He believed that the Canada-United States Trade Treaty was the first stepping stone to prosperity.

Major H. M. McGiverin, president of the Victoria Liberal Association, said that the association's constitution was going to be thoroughly revised. He urged those present to submit suggestions through their ward executive. He also said that speakers on educational topics would be provided for the various ward meetings next year.

Authors of Circular Must Explain Action To Riot Commission

Chief Justice Orders Them Brought Before Inquiry at Regina—Origin of On-To-Ottawa Trek of Last June Examined

REGINA, Nov. 26 (P).—Chief Justice J. T. Brown, chairman of the commission investigating the Regina Dominion Day riot, today described a circular dealing with the riot inquiry as "a most reprehensible document," and ordered its authors brought before the inquiry to explain their action.

The circular distributed to Regina homes and purporting to be "Bulletin No. 3 issued by the Regina citizens' defence committee," was brought to the attention of the commissioners by G. H. Yule, K.C., commission counsel, who said it was "a reflection on the dignity of this commission."

OUTLINES SCOPE

Restriction of the scope of the riot inquiry was suggested by Chief Justice Brown when he outlined terms of reference of the commission. Movements of the British Columbia relief camp strikers on the On-to-Ottawa trek from the time it left Vancouver until it reached Regina and returned again to Vancouver would be investigated.

"We have nothing to do with investigating the relief camps of British Columbia," he said, "and, if we do so, we must have the powers of the commission enlarged."

Frank J. G. Cunningham, strikers' counsel, said evidence of police witnesses had already touched on events in Vancouver and he wished to go on with evidence on the same matters. Chief Justice Brown ruled that he was entitled to do so, but suggested the investigation be kept within the recognized limits of the terms of reference.

NO PREJUDICE

The circular would not be permitted to prejudice the case of the strikers before the commission, Chief Justice Brown declared, and persons responsible would be brought before the commission to state the grounds of their complaint against the inquiry. To Arthur Evans, trek leader, who was in the witness box, Chief Justice Brown repeated the assurance that the strikers' case would not be prejudiced by the circular. Evans said he knew nothing of the matter.

Origin of the on-to-Ottawa trek in June in the British Columbia relief camp strikes, which brought nearly 2,000 young men with a list of "demands" into Vancouver and later launched them on a 3,000-mile freight car journey toward the nation's capital, were examined as Arthur Evans testified.

ARGUMENT OF COUNSEL

Considerable argument developed among counsel as Evans proceeded over questions of admissibility of hearsay evidence. Frank Cunningham, strikers' counsel, indicated at several points where corroboratory testimony might be secured only at Vancouver. He repeated his intention to request removal later of the inquiry to Vancouver.

Evans described himself as British Columbia district organizer of the Workers' Unity League "a trade union centre, something like American Federation of Labor."

LEGION BRANCH HOLDS BANQUET

Veterans at Nanaimo Celebrate Anniversary of Founding of Society

NANAIMO, Nov. 26.—Members of Nanaimo Branch of the Canadian Legion, with C. L. Holmes presiding, and their friends, one hundred and eighty strong, sat down to a sumptuous banquet in the Returned Soldier Building, to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the society.

Greetings were received from near and distant points including those from the Ottawa branch, where a similar celebration was held. The hall was lavishly decorated with flags and the traditional poppy, and war songs were lustily sung by the friendly gathering, led by Comrade Jim Scales. Mrs. R. T. Wilson was accompanist.

A three-tier birthday cake was cut by Mrs. Keen, president of the Women's Auxiliary, using Major O'Brien's sword which was used in one hundred and twenty-five engagements in the Boer War. Speakers included Thomas Barnard, president, B.C. Division Canadian Legion; George S. Devin, Mayor J. Banby, Ex-Mayor F. Busby, Robert Hindmarch, and Major Mitchell. Outstanding artists contributed social and instrumental numbers.

PRAISES WORK OF BENEFACTOR

Rev. Robert Connell, M.P.P., Tells Kiwanians of Andrew Carnegie's Life

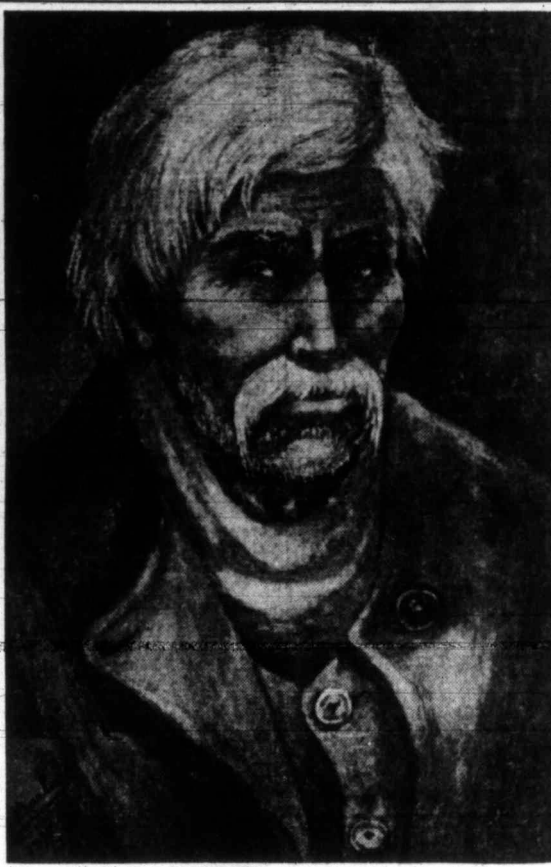

Speaking before the Kiwanis Club in the Empress Hotel yesterday, Rev. Robert Connell, M.P.P., chairman of the Victoria Public Library Board, described Andrew Carnegie as "a great man dominated by a great idea, that of spreading education." The address was one given in connection with Carnegie Week marking the centenary of the great benefactor's birthday.

Tracing the life of the benefactor, Mr. Connell declared that Carnegie had started out to amass a moderate fortune in order to allow himself to secure an education. He had become an outstanding man in an industrial way and had clashed with the workmen so that he had continued to be regarded with intense dislike among the workers.

WAS BENEFACTOR

In spite of this, the speaker said, that the plan that Carnegie had laid out was not for his own glorification, but rather for the good of

THE above portrait of Chief David, the 109-year-old head of the Saanich Indians, is one of eight or ten paintings of Vancouver Island Indians done by Mrs. S. MacLure, of Victoria, to fill an order for a London collector, A. Bosson, M.P.

Mr. Bosson, who is an architect, became interested in the North American Indians some years ago, when he was practising his profession in New York City; and through Lieut. G. T. Emmons, one of the leading authorities on the British Columbia West Coast Indians, he came to know that he had never gone to college, and launched out on a plan for self-improvement for those who had like himself not had the advantage of a college education.

Mr. Connell recalled the Victoria Mechanics Institute Library some thirty-five years ago that existed here and was placed in the city hall. It was under the charge of the late Mr. Goward. In turn, he pictured what was being done now through the Carnegie Library. The great men and women represented in the books on the shelves of the library whose inspiration and information were available constitute a system of public education. He was glad the public showed appreciation, and the interest in the educational opportunities so afforded was increasing all the time. He praised the good work of Miss Margaret Clay and her staff in the library.

Miss Clay was present at the luncheon and spoke briefly expressing thanks for the opportunity of hearing the address of Mr. Connell and thanking the citizens for their interest.

ANTELOPE TO BE FAIR GAME AGAIN

Another Open Season Set in Province of Alberta for Fleet-Footed Prairie Animals

CALGARY, Nov. 26 (P).—Another open season for antelope from December 2 to 10 has been set through an order-in-council, the Game Branch of the Alberta Department of Agriculture announced yesterday. Representations from land owners and farmers in the antelope country, Southern Alberta from the Rocky Mountains to the Saskatchewan border—that large herds of these animals were eating pastures and attacking feed stacks influenced the Game Branch to declare the second open season this year.

A contributory factor was that during the first open season, November 1 to 11, severe weather and deep snow prevailed during practically the whole period.

Special licences costing five dollars allowed hunters to shoot two of the fleet-footed animals on occupied land enclosed by fences and with the written consent of the owner or occupant.

YAWNING WOMAN RECEIVES GIFTS

Mrs. F. E. Wakelin's Condition Unchanged—She Recently Received a Bible as a Probable Cure

Mrs. F. E. Wakelin, whose peculiar ailment attracted widespread interest on the North American continent, today enters her eighty-first day of continuous yawning. Her condition is practically the same as when the yawning started last September, although the yawns have lessened to about five a minute.

Medical authorities report she has been getting a little more rest and occasionally is able to sleep without the administration of drugs. She is in hospital here.

Mrs. Wakelin is still receiving a large number of letters of advice from various parts of the country and they average between thirty and forty a day. She has also received a number of pamphlets and charms. Recently she came into possession of an illustrated Bible with a cover of olive wood from Palestine.

COLLECTIONS SHOW GAIN

D. A. Macdonald, Comptroller, Gives Encouraging Picture of Receipts

A substantial gain in collection of current taxes and arrears up to November 20, as compared with the same period last year, was announced yesterday by D. A. Macdonald, city comptroller.

Coincident with this announcement, George Okell, city collector, announced that a final 3 per cent penalty would go into effect on December 3 on all unpaid current accounts.

This 3-per-cent penalty, added to the series of 1-per-cent penalties already imposed, will bring the total up to 6 per cent. It is expected there will be quite a rush to make payments before December 3 to avoid the last heavy penalty.

Mr. Macdonald reported that up to November 20 of this year, a total of $1,242,219 had been collected from current tax accounts, as compared with $1,284,036 for the same period last year. The city's last year's $1,747,383 as compared with $1,690,048 this year.

PERCENTAGE UP

The percentage of collections this year amounts to 73.508 as compared with 73.48 last year, so that this year's collections are slightly ahead of those of 1934.

However, since the last survey of the situation was taken on October 31 of this year, the collections have risen substantially. The percentage of collections up to October 31, 1934, was 72.6 as compared with 72.37 in 1935. Thus it can be seen that the collections since October 31 of this year have placed the city in a position of being ahead of last year's percentage on November 20 compared with being behind last year's percentage on October 31.

An even more encouraging picture was obtained from a survey of the collection of tax arrears. Last year up to November 20 a total of $241,489 was collected compared with $288,292 for the same period this year. This is a gain of $46,803 for the 1935 period, and it is expected, Mr. Macdonald said, that collection of arrears will exceed the estimate for 1935, which showed an increase of $50,000 over last year.

SCHOOL BOARD FIELD WIDENED

Arthur C. Pike Enters List, Bringing Total Candidates to Seven

ARTHUR C. PIKE

With the announcement yesterday that Arthur C. Pike, former school trustee, would seek election to the city school board, the number of candidates in the field for the four vacancies on the school board now totals seven.

The aspirants are Trustees Kenneth Ferguson, Trustee Charles R. Bishop, Arthur C. Pike, Alex Marshall, Major P. J. Riddell, F. G. Mulliner and Walter E. Staneland. Mr. Pike served on the city school board for five years, bringing to his post a wide experience in engineering and general superintendency of buildings. During his tenure of office, he was a member of the buildings and grounds committee. Apart from the school board, Mr. Pike also served the city as a director of the library board from 1920 until 1925. He relinquished his post on the library board after being elected a school trustee.

Christmas Seals To Aid Afflicted

On November 30, letters containing Christmas seals and a pamphlet giving an account of the work accomplished by the Christmas seal sale fund during the past year will go forward to citizens of Victoria and surrounding districts.

The committee is hopeful that the general public will again assist in this preventive work. If such a programme is not undertaken, so that early cases can be discovered and infected ones prevented from developing the disease, successive crops of tuberculosis may be expected to appear year after year, it is pointed out by the local clinic.

KING OF THE HELLENES

The return of King George to Greece after an exile of twelve years is naturally an event of international importance, and it is one peculiarly interesting to the British people since he is great-grandson of Queen Victoria. His exile was spent in England, and it was remarkable that during his residence there he engaged in no political activity whatever. Only twice during his residence did he wear uniform. The first occasion was at the wedding of his first cousin, the Duke of Kent, and the second at the Duke of Gloucester's wedding. At the time of the latter event the monarchy in Greece had been restored.

King George is forty-five years of age. He was brought up as a soldier and a sailor. It was on September 28, 1922, that he became King of Greece, but King in name only, and on December 19, 1923, he was advised by the Republican Prime Minister, General Gonatas, to leave the country. He is now back at Athens, conveyed there by the cruiser Averoff escorted by destroyers, and has received a tumultuous welcome. He is once more King of the Hellenes, of all the Greeks, and not the instrument of any party. That is illustrated by the nature of the plebiscite which gave such an overwhelming verdict for his recall to the throne. Speaking of the restoration, General Metaxas said: "His Majesty should be above all parties, a free moderator and a protector of the regime. People must penalize mercilessly any party which attempts to exploit Monarchy, and the Monarch must be the axis round which the Fighting Services should revolve, eschewing politicians and political strife for ever."

NEGROES AND ITALO-ETHIOPIAN WAR

An added factor in the complex situation arising out of Italy's attack upon the integrity of Ethiopia lies in the hostile reaction among the colored peoples of the world. Thoughtful men of African descent have looked upon Ethiopia as a symbol of the aspirations of black people for independence; for self-determination and the assimilation of all that is best in modern civilization. Dr. George E. Haynes, a well-balanced Negro publicist, writing in The Christian Century, of Chicago, states that "American Negroes find in the Italian advance another instance of exploitation and domination by the white world." The Crisis magazine, edited by Dr. Dubois, says that the war "represents the sad spectacle of 'white' civilization. One madman shouting of destiny and duty, may be the bomb blowing it to hell." Another leading journal, Opportunity, states that it is not beyond the realm of possibility that the invasion of Ethiopia may become the force that will create "that unity of colored races which the prophets of Nordic supremacy have so long feared." This journal reports the press of Japan as full of sympathetic references to the plight of colored people under white domination.

A sharpening of the inter-racial crisis as a result of the impending conflict was forecast by General Smuts, of South Africa, some months ago. He warned the world that the attack of Italy upon Ethiopia would mean the undoing of years of effort for inter-racial understanding and co-operative action between whites and blacks of the African continent. "The African world has been stirred and its sympathies are with Abyssinia," according to The Bantu World, a leading native weekly, published in Johannesburg in five native languages. Negro church people in the United States call attention to the rising tides of hostility among colored people. The administrative body of three million Negro Baptists holds that "Italy has no right to subjugate a weaker nation and seize its possessions by cruel war." A bishop of the Colored Methodist Church bids Signor Mussolini beware of "prodding the sleeping lion of potential unified consciousness of related groups, representing more than five hundred million colored people, as against five hundred millions of Nordic and Aryan stock." Summing up his review of the inter-racial aspects of the war, Dr. Haynes is of the opinion that the attitude of the League of Nations may "tip the scales toward co-operation or conflict in future relations between the white and darker nations in America, Africa and Asia."

WORRY

The dictionary meaning of anxiety is uneasiness, concern, solicitude, desire for a thing or to do something. Worry is over-anxiety. To worry is to give way to anxiety, to let the mind dwell upon troubles. In an article in The London Spectator by a writer whose professional standing may be guessed from the fact that he writes under the impressive pseudonym of "Aesculapian," it is definitely stated that in varying degrees of severity, what doctors call "anxiety neurosis" is probably the commonest ailment in civilized countries today. The usual symptoms of this condition are said to be diminution of hope and of enthusiasm, and consequent unhappiness. The manifest signs may be serious pervasions of interpretation of external happenings.

The purpose of "Aesculapian" is to point out that the practice of worrying is highly injurious, sinful even to the degree or quality of deadly sin, and, as everyone will readily admit, absolutely futile. This is apparently not brand new modern doctrine, and worry is obviously not a brand new disease, for it was so well known to the medievalists that they deliberately placed it among the deadly sins, calling it by the term "accidie." Accidie, though rarely used nowadays, is a term which signifies sloth. What connection, then, is there between the deadly sin of sloth and the habit or practice of over-anxiety or worry? It appears when we look attentively into it that the connection is very close indeed. If we are not captains of our own souls, if we mistrust the guidance of instinct, if what we desire seems unattainable, if we fail to use those weapons against bodily disease which are better than "all the serums and drugs in the pharmacopoeia," namely faith and hope, then we lose all enthusiasm and sink into that condition of sloth which constitutes a practical denial of the goodness of God. "Aesculapian" is not a professional theologian, but he thinks that sin and ill-health are after all not such very different things and he quotes an eighteenth century theologian of note, John Wesley, as saying: "I would as soon curse and swear as worry. It is doubting God." How does the essayist account for the prevalence of this melancholy or hopelessness or lack of faith and enthusiasm among all classes at the present time? Why are so many people morbidly anxious today? It has latterly been much the practice of reformers and uplifters, amateur and professional, to lay the blame for our troubles and anxieties at the door of our economic and monetary systems. "Aesculapian," however, is of opinion that we may discover, or rediscover, the truth that our troubles are largely in ourselves as individuals rather than in our environment, and that what we chiefly need in order to achieve a healthier and happier existence is to seek to improve our morale and endeavor after a sane and cheerful outlook upon life, realizing that habits of faith and hope may be acquired if we strive for them, and that these form the most effective antidote to the twin curses of worry and fear.

OF DOUBTFUL VALUE

Under the Reciprocity Pact signed between Canada and the United States the two chief manufacturing industries of this country that are affected are the automobile and farm implements industries. The former is capitalized at about $50,000,000; it employs 10,000 hands; its annual pay roll is $11,000,000. As well there are 75 firms handling automobile supplies. These represent a capital of $17,000,000; they employ 4,000 persons and have an annual pay roll of $4,000,000. There are some 40 firms in the farm implements industry with a capitalization of $73,000,000, with 3,000 persons employed and an annual pay roll of $3,000,000.

The foregoing industries seem bound to suffer under the terms of the Reciprocity Pact. It is true that the reduction of duties will be popular with the public who want cheaper automobiles and cheaper farm implements. They may well react, however, in adding to unemployment in Canada, and that will not increase the purchasing power of the consumer. There is no doubt that American manufacturers of the commodities concerned can produce in a cheaper way than the Canadian manufacturers. There is mass production across the line; there is a surplus of goods available for export after sufficient profits have been made at home. This is one aspect of the trade pact which has doubtful value. It will unquestionably benefit American manufacturers; it may possibly intensify unemployment in this country.

Those who know the British people are not in the least surprised at the defeat of such a noted economist as Sir George Paish in the recent election. Men of his type conduct the dryest of dry campaigns. It was indeed symptomatic of the election that Sir George, a noted free trader, should have gone down to defeat in Manchester, so long regarded as the home of free trade in England. His successful opponent was a noted cricketer who doubtless conducted a much more scintillating campaign than can be expected when dry-as-dust economics are the theme.

ROAD SONG

Little he asked of all the world
But leisure to crowd the years with song;
Where the iris-lined horizon lurled
He strode his troubadour way along;
He sang the thunder of holy wars,
Of trees, wood-fragrant with April rain,
Of skies where a jeweled comet soars,
And love, with its white, swift winging pain.
Some men laughed in the market place
When the melody maker scattered his ware,
But a few were still . . . for a little space
He twisted their hearts, and laid them bare.

Note and Comment

By E. B. D.

Get money, still get money, boy;
No matter by what means.
—Ben Jonson.

The first of the season's treks to Ottawa under a new political dispensation recalls to mind the celebrated saying of Canada's most illustrious public woman. We remember Miss Agnes MacPhail was quoted in the press as saying that she knew how to handle Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King. Everything printed in the newspapers may not be true, but the sensational statement of Miss MacPhail was never contradicted. At a period of crisis in the political history of Mr. King the future of the Liberal leadership and of his Government depended upon the support of the then member for Southeast Grey. The political relations between Miss MacPhail and Mr. King were so intimate that some wicked newspaper correspondent hinted that the political alliance might result in a very intimate social alliance. It was at this period in the interesting political crisis that Miss Agnes MacPhail declared that the only way to get anything you wanted out of Mr. King was to take the Rt. Hon. Gentleman by some part of his pants and shake it out of him.

The scene is changed. None of the things anticipated by the wicked representative of the press have come to pass. If there were any entangling alliance between the two intriguing politicians, they have been dissolved, not by mutual consent, but by the force of political circumstances. Both the principals are independent and fancy free, socially and politically. As a solitary representative of the United Farmers of Ontario, the clever and resourceful schoolmaster is ploughing a lonely political furrow. Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King has such a big majority in the new Parliament that he is completely independent of her favors or her support. He has been dealt a good hand and is therefore invulnerable. He may be in the grip of circumstances before he has run his course, but there is no part of him which is likely to provide an immediate grip with which he can be shaken.

If the provincial Premiers, with the case of Miss MacPhail in their minds, are going down to Ottawa with the idea in their heads that they can grab the Prime Minister by any part of his attire or his person and shake something worth while out of him, they may be mistaken. For if all the Western provinces are going to be unanimous in their demands upon him, the Eastern provinces will be solidly behind him. Quebec will be almost unanimous in its support of him; the Maritime provinces are behind him nearly to a man; and Ontario, with the help of that almost exploded phenomenon, Premier Hepburn, has sent a majority of his supporters to the new Parliament. Of course the indomitable Gerry McGeer will be on the spot, and by strong arm methods may attempt to put the Prime Minister on the spot, but we doubt whether even with the support of the mayors he will be able to shake the resolution of the Rt. Hon. the First Minister, with the prestige he already has gained by a demonstration of the skill and adroitness with which he has handled President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Mr. King has stated that at heart and by inheritance of blood he is a radical, but his radicalism is not of the same type as the social revolutionary radicalism of the West. He says he is interested in the unique experiment of Premier Abernethy of Alberta; but he is too astute to meddle with it, much too wise to attempt to arrest it. But, friends and supporters of the social brotherhood, what a denouement or revelation there will be when the provinces present their demands! Millions of dollars for "work and wages" is an insignificant item in the demands of British Columbia. The least of the demands of Alberta is a deposit to the provincial credit of twenty millions of dollars as collateral evidence of the good faith of the Dominion. The cumulative demand is that the Federal Government shall assume the entire burden of relief for the unemployed, shall assume all provincial debts, reduce the capital sum of the indebtedness and refund the whole lump at reduced rates of interest.

The credit of Canada is sound, or it was sound when the new Government assumed power; but how long will it remain sound if all the demands of the provinces are met? Mr. King, after consultation with his financial wizard, Mr. Dunning, probably will ask the provincial delegates where the money is to be dug up. Amendments to the constitution will not work a financial miracle. There are people who believe that bankers create money by writing figures in books. The begging Premiers are not so simple or credulous as to believe that prosper-

Good Luck, Roy
Roy Barnes, clever-centre-half of the Victoria West football eleven, and peppy mascot of the Victoria hall club, is leaving the city, Barnes' departure will be Victoria's loss. His absence will be keenly felt. While readily admitting there are perhaps other good football players to fill the vacancy that will be created on the Victoria Intermediate rank, we still think Barnes is the daddy of them all. We join the large army of Barnes' friends in extending him good luck on his present mission and when, if ever, he returns to Victoria, we shall be glad to see him, again.—S.T.

Impertinent Question
We wonder just what particular contribution to the welfare of mankind is made when a man walks from the Atlantic to the Pacific, or vice versa, for his own glorification?—N.A.C.M.

Hanging Baskets
In line with the city's policy to beautify Victoria, so as to attract more tourists here, we would suggest that the practice of hanging plant baskets from the cluster-light standards be revived. When this was done some years ago the downtown area of the city was made attractive with flowering plants hanging down from the wire baskets. It should not entail a great deal of expense since the city has a well stocked nursery, both at Salsadonna Park and Beacon Hill Park.—P.C.R.

Human Justice
In the days of King John, a man caught hunting in the King's Forest had his ears lopped off, his tongue torn out, or his hands cut off at the wrists. It has remained for modern civilization to refine the punishment for taking a deer by night even when it is wanted for human food. The present day punishment in B.C. is a fine so large that a man in need of food for his family cannot pay for it; or imprisonment for sixty days, when the family is left to fend for itself. Much is said about social justice. Is human justice so perfect.—S.G.

RELIEF AND REMEMBRANCE

Sir,—We are on relief in Oak Bay, receiving $28.80 per month, from which water rate is deducted. Full deduction is also made for all holidays, such as Christmas Day, Thanksgiving Day, and Remembrance Day.

No difference is made in the scale of relief for a family, a man and wife receiving exactly the same allowance as they would with two, four or six children.

At all days in the year, Remembrance Day! Must it be made harder to carry on "lest I forget" to remember him (then little more than a boy, afterwards my first husband) as he gave up all to do "his bit" in that never-to-be-forgotten August, 1914.

Must I go to the local "Friendly Help" for the fuel to keep us warm (we cannot afford to buy it)? that I should remember a name that is carved on the Memorial Gate as a lasting remembrance to those who made the supreme sacrifice. The worry of those days combined with the air raids on London hastened my mother's death. Did I require a deduction of $32.00 from $27.30 to make me remember Remembrance Day?

What deduction, if any, I wonder was made in the relief allowance of those appointed to the Relief Office staff who in many cases have nothing better to remember Remembrance Day by other than that it is a public holiday, and who did their bit, far, so very far, from the firing line.

FIRST AID

Sir,—How many people consider the meaning of this, and its value? It is one of the most important things in this age and should receive the support it deserves from the general public. Not one of us, when we go out, know what is going to happen, or whether we shall get back safe; but, although accidents or sickness in the street cannot be foreseen, it is a consolation to know that there are qualified first-aid men and women from the St. John Ambulance Brigade always ready to look after same, and relieve suffering and pain.

For example, if there was an auto smash and someone was hurt, the attention from one of the ambulance members not only relieves the suffering and pain, but by such attention may lessen the period of medical or hospital treatment, thereby making the bills less than they would be. The value of the ambulance brigade has been proved by the number of cases attended, and in certain cases lives have been saved.

It is the intention of this brigade, if sufficient support is received, to detail its members to the different busy points in the city in case of emergency, so that if anything does happen they will be on hand to save delay and have everything in order from the doctors. The St. John Ambulance Brigade this past week has appealed for funds to buy the materials needed in its work. So if everyone who realizes the importance of this brigade can send along a donation, large or small, it will be used only as stated.

Those who drive autos should be the first in the field with donations, and then the pedestrian. Everyone is covered by our activities, young and old.

We also contemplate in the near future obtaining an ambulance which could be used by everyone who needs it, without cost. This is also another service of the brigade, and spent immediately on materials and equipment. Dr. Clem Davies has very kindly appealed over CFCT on our behalf.

In conclusion, I leave it to all for thought and action; so get your cheque-book out now and do a Christian act, or send the odd 50 cents along to

APPRECIATION

Sir,—May I, through The Colonist, express thanks, on behalf of my wife and myself, for the many kindnesses and neighborly acts of the people of Outer Point, Sooke, and surrounding districts, following the recent fire which destroyed our home? We could not possibly reach each one of these kind friends individually, but we are deeply appreciative of the generous way in which the people of the community have reached out a helping hand and assisted us during this difficult time.

We would specially like to express our thanks to the Sooke branch of the Canadian Legion, which arranged a benefit dance. The proceeds from this, supplemented by independent donations, have gone a long way to tide us over a critical moment.

DICKENSIAN CHARACTERS

Sir,—I was much intrigued by something in a letter over the pen name of "Verite" in this evening's issue of your contemporary, The Victoria Daily Times; something about "Dickens' characters walking along the streets of Victoria. The same idea time and again had occurred to me.

That esteemed and genial citizen, your contemporary's Editor, the verisimilitude of Mr. Pickwick. Any one knowing Mr. B. C. Nicholas has seen Mr. Pickwick in the flesh.

On those rare occasions when he condescends to address a public audience here or, better still, when he dispenses the privacies of the chair as at the debate meeting recently, this similarity of physique and characteristics is so clearly brought out that it gives us the pure and perfect Pickwickian touch. Pickwick himself never did it better.

There is one thing, however, about the Dickensian character that I have not the honor of knowing him by name at the Gray Line Taxi. He is Mr.

ESQUIMALT FRIENDLY HELP

Sir,—I am informed that the Esquimalt Friendly Help is soliciting funds so as to be able to carry on the great work that it has accomplished in Esquimalt in past years.

I sincerely hope that the people of Esquimalt who are in a position to help in any way will readily respond to this appeal and give to the maximum of their ability to do so.

I need hardly say that it requires the closest co-operation of all classes of our citizens to work in conjunction with the ladies who form our local branch of the Friendly Help and who give so willingly of their time and ability in trying to help those of our citizens who, for the time being, are not in a position to obtain the ordinary necessities of life. The winter weather is upon us and the appeals are becoming more numerous, and it is absolutely necessary that funds be provided so as to be able to comply with these requests.

I trust that those who possibly can will do all in their power to see that those who are more unfortunately placed than themselves will not go in want, especially during the winter months.

A VETERAN'S FUNERAL

Sir,—I wish to draw attention to the scant respect shown at the burial of one member of the C.E.F., Frank Lynn, of 925 Palmouth Road, left Victoria at the age of twenty-one, with the 54th Battalion of the C.E.F., and returned to Victoria to his home, gassed, shellshocked and mentally unbalanced. For the last few years he was living at 939 Palmouth Road, alone, his mother having died. He was found sitting on the floor dead. The contents of his home were a collection of rags and sacking, no blankets, no chair, and apparently no food and no fuel.

The police and coroner came, the funeral was at Sands, and the undertaker had to solicit the help of two men, the only ones there, to carry the coffin at the parlor and grave.

In his notice of death and burial it said he was born in England. He was an Indian half-breed. Also, you gave a list of pallbearers. I was there, but saw no pallbearers. Surely our pensions department, or what not, could show some respect at the burial of a man ruined in his country's service. He should have had a decent funeral attendance of some kind. THOS. H. Work of S.P.C.A. Covers Wide Field Reports Disclose

Organization Holds Annual Meeting—Officers Are Re-elected—Nearly 5,000 Animals Inspected And 150 Cases Handled by Inspector

CONFIDENCE in the officers and executive members of the S.P.C.A. was shown in a tangible way at last night's annual meeting when the entire slate of officers and executive members, with but one exception, was returned to office.

F. J. Crowhurst again serves as president, while A. R. Sherwood commences his seventh term as secretary-treasurer. Other officers named were: Honorary patron, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor; honorary veterinarians, Dr. Gordon Keown, Dr. M. L. Olsen and Dr. R. Hamilton; honorary counsel, Lindley Craze, K.C.; executive members, Mrs. O. C. Bass, Madame A. B. Vivenot, Mrs. J. S. Stewart, W. G. Lemm, Mrs. C. A. McGee, Mrs. B. G. Walker, Commander C. H. R. Slingsby, Miss E. Bass, A. N. Smith and Stanley Blyth.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Mr. Crowhurst, in his annual report, spoke of the wide field of activity of the society, and touched upon some of the highlights of the year's work. He told how the association had been instrumental in preventing the killing of buffalo in Saskatchewan with bows and arrows, and the success of Animal Week. A branch of the organization had been established at Duncan during the year, he said, and a resume of the year's work, and pointed out how the association's activities had been increased tremendously by the flood and frosts of last January. The floods and heavy frosts had created widespread suffering to livestock, and in many instances the association had to provide food for the stock.

During the year 151 cases were attended to, and 4,883 head of various kinds of stock inspected. Ninety-nine animals were destroyed. Under the heading of unfinished business, a proposal was advanced that a list of work horses in the city be prepared and that the animals be inspected regularly.

Norman Holland, Eastern Business Leader, Warns Prices Are Going Up

Recognized as one of Eastern Canada's most successful businessmen, Norman Holland, Westmount, Que., managing-director of Brander-Henderson, Limited, paint manufacturers, left Victoria last night after paying a short visit to the city.

Everywhere he has found business better and the people more optimistic. He declared prices on raw materials had a distinct trend upward, and warned: "We are on rising prices in Canada and those who do not get in now will soon find they have passed up their opportunity."

IS IMPRESSED

All nine units of his company, spread across the Dominion, have just reported their business for the first three weeks of November, and they show an increase over that of a year ago, just as October of this year registered an increase over the same month in 1934.

"I really am impressed with the improvement," he stated.

The increase in his business and in other lines he attributes to the confidence of the people in the stability of conditions for the next three to four months. All sales by his company, he pointed out, were for Spring retail business, thus showing the businessmen had confidence in the coming year.

WEST INDIES BETTER

"I have just returned from a trip to the West Indies and Northern countries of South America, and I found conditions better there," Mr. Holland asserted.

In twenty-three working days, he covered 11,000 miles by airplane; 1,000 miles by train; 1,000 miles by steamship, and 2,000 miles by motor car.

Although he averaged 1,000 miles a day when traveling by plane, he flew from Mexico City to New York, a distance of 1,960 miles in twenty hours. He ate breakfast Friday morning in Mexico City and Saturday morning breakfast in New York. Mr. Holland is enthusiastic about air travel, flying when possible.

back this year," he said, in referring to the improvement in that part of the world. The banana crop of Jamaica was badly hit, and the rice situation in British Guiana was not good. However, Trinidad had an extremely good sugar crop.

VERMIN DRIVE BEING PLANNED

Norman Lord Announces Proposed Drive Against Crows, Cats and Dogs

A campaign to rid the city of vermin will be conducted early next Spring, Norman Lord, dog licence and road and poll tax collector, announced yesterday.

This year some 400 crows were destroyed, but the increase during the past few years has been tremendous and these birds are still a nuisance, so will be included in the campaign. The destruction of game birds during the nesting season in the preserves within the city boundary, and also the destruction of domestic fowl are quite heavy as a result of the attacks made upon bird life by the crows, Mr. Lord stated.

Stray cats, also destroyers of bird life, and stray dogs will be rounded up during the campaign.

Every day patients at Droitwich Spa are being treated in this way for rheumatism, sciatica, neuritis, lumbago, arthritis and similar disorders.

LOCAL TREATMENT

In Victoria we have waters equally valuable, containing more minerals, such as sodium chloride, magnesium chloride, potassium chloride, iodine, etc., and it is the recognition of this fact which induced the Crystal Garden to develop its hydro department to its present state of completeness. Here for a moderate expenditure rheumatic sufferers can take hot sea salt baths, with as much benefit as if they had visited one of the distant and infinitely more expensive hot springs. Turkish and steam baths, sulphur baths, Swedish and electric massage are among the treatments given, invariably upon the advice of the patient's physician.

The hydro department at the Crystal Garden is under the direction of E. Van Becker (London diploma), who has had twenty years' experience in hydro-therapy and physio-therapy.

ENTERTAINED BY YOUNG DANCERS

QUALICUM BEACH, Nov. 26.—One of the most delightful local offerings of the season was presented here on Saturday night, when the children of the dancing class of Meadames C. Holt and F. Rockett were hosts to their relatives and friends in a charming programme and dance recital.

The first part of the entertainment was presented as a radio programme of station QDC (Qualicum Dancing Class), with Peter Jarvis acting as announcer, the various items being "sponsored" by local merchants. Outstanding among the many excellent numbers were two duets and a French minuet by Joan Mills and Pat Sanders; a harmonica solo by Evan Sawyer, and song by the junior class, "The Good Ship Lollypop," from the film "Bright Eyes."

The programme was then transferred to the main floor of the hall, where games and competition dances took place. F. Bagnall acted as master of ceremonies, and the judges of dancing were Mrs. Craig Reed and Messrs. Leeson and Walde. After supper had been served, the remainder of the evening was devoted to general dancing, for which B. O. Mills kindly supplied the music.

FAIR RAPIDLY TAKING SHAPE

Drills Set Aside on Monday and Tuesday So Workmen Can Build Booths

In order that workmen may erect forty booths and test out lighting effects at the Armories for the Tourist Trade Development Association Winter Fair and Bazaar, there will be on regimental drills there on Monday or Tuesday.

Lieutenant-Colonel J. R. Kingham, commander of the 1st Battalion, Canadian Scottish Regiment, and Lieutenant-Colonel M. Aubrey Kent, commander of the 5th (B.C.) Coast Brigade, kindly co-operated with the association in setting the drills aside.

2,300 LAMPS

Supplied by a special circuit, 2,300 lamps will be used to produce illuminated designs on the ceiling at the Armories. The forty stalls are being built of 15,000 board feet of lumber and 10,000 square feet of wallboard.

Arthur H. Shobolt and W. Curry will build the Provincial Government stand around two sixteen-foot Island totem poles with a frieze of carved Indian figures. The stand will feature exhibits of the Departments of Forestry, Mines and Agriculture.

TO OPEN FAIR

A representative of Premier T. D. Pattullo will open the Winter Fair and Bazaar and The Daily Colonist Baby Show on the afternoon of December 4. Mayor David Leeming will officiate in the evening. Reeves R. W. Mayhew, William Crouch and Alex Lockley will announce Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt days at the fair.

School children, who have sold 11,000 tickets to the fair, were disappointed yesterday to learn that Adam, the Marmoset monkey offered as a prize, failed to survive the damp weather. A Rhea monkey from South America has been secured to replace the tiny animal. It answers to the name of "Mus-solini."

VIVISECTION IS MEETING SUBJECT

Local Branch of Organization Opposed to Practice Discusses Many Aspects

H. Webster presided at a recent board meeting of the local Anti-Vivisection Society, when a message of condolence was voted to the family of Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, members of which are all prominent anti-vivisectionists.

Tom Groves, M.P., London, acknowledged a letter of congratulation from Victoria on the consistent interest he takes in supporting the movement in the House of Commons. The recent elections in Canada and in England were, it was stated, considerably influenced by the anti-vivisection vote.

Miss Kittle, honorary secretary, read a letter of appeal from the Vivisection Investigation League, New York, asking her to attend a conference on vivisection to be held in Washington, D.C., in January. The World League, London, with which the local society is associated, reported cruelty used in obtaining lizard and snake skins for commercial purposes.

MOTION OF CENSURE

Further correspondence was read from Dr. A. S. Millard, formerly medical health officer at Cyprus, regarding practice of vivisection in Shantung University. In this connection a motion of censure was passed upon clergy, churches and missionary organizations who supported the practice of animal experimentation in China.

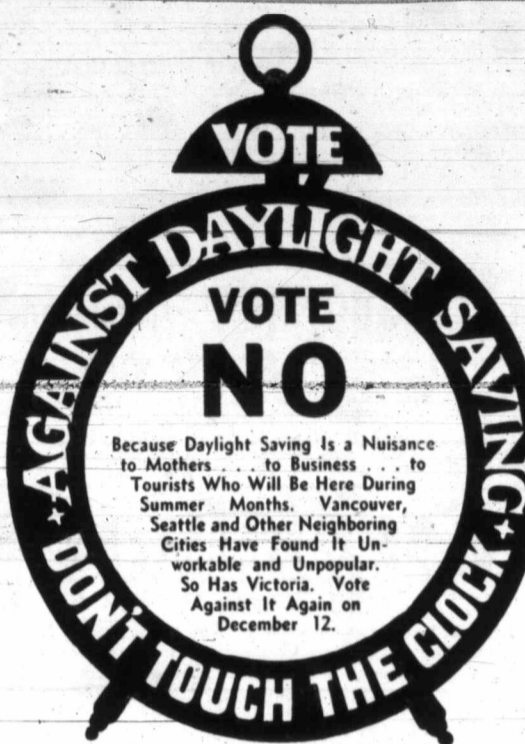

"Are the Standards of Modern Education Unethical?" will be the subject for the next house meeting to be held at the home of Madame Vivenot, Olympic Apartments, 1120 May Street, on Tuesday, December 3, at 8:15 p.m. All members, friends and interested persons are cordially invited.

DOUBLE QUICK STARTING!

With WINTER

76 GASOLINE AND

Highly volatile at low temperatures... ignites instantly. Result—Double Quick Starting.

Cold motor starting requires the combination of a gasoline that vaporizes instantly, and a motor oil that will not become viscous and thick at low temperatures and act as a drag on the motor.

Winter 76 Gasoline gives an instant start at low temperatures—because it contains the correct proportion of highly volatile elements which vaporize quickly and thoroughly.

Triton Motor Oil flows freely at sub-zero temperatures, permitting the starter to turn over the motor easier and faster. This is due to the fact it is free of all wax and low-grade viscous materials which cause ordinary oils to thicken when cold.

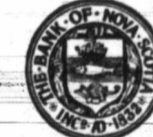

With Winter 76 in the tank and Triton in the crank-case, you minimize cold-motor wear and increase all-round motor efficiency.

Watch for the two banners—the orange 76 and the blue and white Triton. For double quick starting use Winter 76 and Triton. Start today.

Hollywood Motion Picture
Men Conferring With Chamber Head

Victoria may have a second motion picture studio, that of the "Bud" Barsky Productions, Limited, of Hollywood.

"Bud" Barsky, producer, who for many years has been associated with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Tiffany and other outstanding motion picture corporations, and George Schneiderman, photographic expert with the Fox Studios for twenty years, arrived here yesterday.

In a conference with W. T. Straith, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, they intimated their desire to establish a permanent studio here, if the Federal Government would permit the entry into Canada of cameras and motion picture equipment free of duty.

MAJOR PRODUCTIONS
The visitors were taken on a tour of the city yesterday by Alderman T. W. Hawkins, who showed them buildings that might be utilized for a studio, laboratories and preview auditorium.

Mr. Barsky declared he was prepared to make major pictures in Western Canada that would answer the requirements of the British quota and give better productions than could be produced in England.

Although the Hollywood producer would not commit himself as to what Canadian city he would choose for his work, he said: "We are prepared to bring $100,000 worth of the most modern moving picture equipment here, with a skeleton organization of experts, and establish a movie plant, including our own laboratory with machine and process shops—a complete self-sustaining unit."

KNOWN PRODUCTIONS

Mr. Barsky's work in production includes "Journey's End," in which David Manners, now in the city, was featured as the coward; Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Laughing Boy," "The Girl From Missouri," featuring Jean Harlow, and "Thin Man." Mr. Schneiderman supervised the photography of Will Rogers' film, "Steamboat Round the Bend," "The Iron Horse" and "The World Moves On."

Hauptmann Pleads for Dr.
John F. Condon to Make
"Full" Statement

TRENTON, N.J., Nov. 26 (AP).—From his death house cell today, Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted murderer of the Lindbergh baby, called upon Dr. John F. Condon, ransom negotiations emissary, to make a "full" statement.

"Not only do I wish this in my interests but also in the cause of justice," he wrote in a statement he signed and gave to Robert Rosecrans and Lloyd Fisher, two of his attorneys. Dr. Condon, he added, "is holding the key in this case and with it the key of my cell."

His statement came following allegations of the discovery of new Lindbergh ransom bills and of new kidnap evidence. But from every official source, including Hauptmann's attorneys, came prompt disclaimers of knowledge of the purported discoveries.

CLAIMS EVIDENCE FOUND
An investigator for Hauptmann, who requested that his name be withheld, said on "unimpeachable authority, despite denials of policy," approximately $700 in ransom money has been received by the Boston Federal Reserve Bank since the Bronx carpenter's arrest.

In another house, this source declared, was found wood of "the same type" as that used in construction of the famous kidnap ladder, down which the kidnapper was alleged to have carried the baby from the nursery in Colonel Lindbergh's Soudland Hills home.

Courtenay-Comox Board of Trade
Discusses Matters Concerning
Improvements in District

COURTENAY, Nov. 26.—A heavy sheaf of correspondence was dealt with at the regular monthly meeting of the Courtenay-Comox Board of Trade on Monday evening. There was a good attendance of members, and J. M. Mitchell occupied the chair. A resolution which advocates stricter enforcement of regulations regarding seine fishing boats off the East Coast of Vancouver Island, and which is receiving the support of Island boards of trade and fish and game associations, was discussed. The matter was referred to Heber Cooke, chairman of the board's fish and game committee, and the committee was given power to act on behalf of the board, as it is felt that prompt action is necessary.

Anchorage in the Courtenay River slough, which has been much improved by Government dredging, has, during the last few months, been taxed to capacity and many boats have had to anchor out in the current of the river or seek anchorage elsewhere. The Dominion Government is therefore being asked by resolution to continue this good work of dredging the slough, which is decidedly beneficial both to the owners of boats and to the town.

Reports from members showed that the road from Camp 3 of the Comox Logging Company had been temporarily improved; but, unless it is graveled, the recent grading will not have a lasting effect on this much-used road. The board's public works committee will follow up its efforts in this connection. G. A. Kirk reported interviewing the Hon. F. M. MacPherson, together with the local member and others, with reference to the extra tax on motor vehicles. The result did not seem to be entirely satisfactory. The committee reporting for the proposed improvement to the Point Holmes-Little River road circuit indicated that data are being collected and a further report will be submitted later.

A further progress report of the resolutions at the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island annual convention at Campbell River, was received from Secretary M. C. Ironside, at Nanaimo. The report was read and given careful consideration.

It was decided to leave the matter of the regular January meeting at the discretion of the executive council of the board, when it is hoped that the members will meet at supper and that a speaker will address the meeting.

South Saanich Farmers Hear
Talk on "The Changing Economic Pattern"

The South Saanich Farmers' Institute held its meeting recently at the Temperance Hall, East Saanich Road, with W. D. Mitchell presiding. The following committee was appointed to attend the District Farmers' Institutes to be held in Victoria: H. Lawrie, N. H. Lamont, J. Malcolm, C. B. McCarthy, W. D. Mitchell and G. Spencer.

A special meeting will be held in the near future for all fruit growers of the district to attend, when a good speaker will address the meeting on the Marketing Act. An old-time dance will be held on December 6. Arrangements were made to hold the annual country store and entertainment jointly with the Women's Institute, on December 13, at the Temperance Hall.

After the meeting, Dean Clement, of the University of British Columbia, gave an address on the "Changing Economic Pattern," pointing out the effect these changes have made on Canada's wheat surplus. England, he said, had changed over from a free trade country to protection, and now bonusing her farmers, especially in wheat, the first 50,000,000 bushels grown there being guaranteed a price of $1.25 a bushel.

Dean Clement did not think that the wheat-growing countries have much to fear from Russia's surplus. He suggested that "the heart and soul had been taken out of Russia," many of their vast schemes of agriculture had been failures. They had tried to establish agriculture on factory lines and, particularly in the case of livestock this did not work well, he concluded. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the speaker for his interesting address.

Leaving City—Premier T. D. Pattullo and Hon. Dr. G. M. Wier will leave this evening for the Mainland, en route to the East, where they will attend the Dominion-Provincial conference opening on December 9. Coast Guard Needs — Attorney-General Sloan will urge extension of the Federal Government's coast guard service on this coast, when he goes to Ottawa later this month. It was intimated yesterday. At present heavy costs are borne by the Provincial Police, operating a chain of patrol boats and launches, which are much used for distress and emergency accident cases as well. Two Dominion life-saving stations on the Coast are not sufficient in view of the work to be done, it will be argued.

Bible Study—The subject of the Bible study to be conducted by Mrs. G. E. Altire Coley in the Crigge Memorial Hall tomorrow evening will be "The Place of Women in the Service of God." This is being given in response to the deep interest in the subject which is aroused as women continue to take an increasingly greater part in public affairs and in the work of the church. The address will begin at 8:15 o'clock. Members of the prayer group will meet at 8 o'clock.

On the North Saskatchewan

IN the late Summer of 1876 the vicinity of Fort Carlton presented an exciting spectacle, strange to those unused to the ways of the plains. A thousand fantastically painted Indians advanced in a semicircle upon the tent where Lieutenant-Governor Morris and Commissioners Christie and MacKay awaited them. The officials, outstanding figures in the making of Canada's West, had come to negotiate one of the greatest treaties by which the young Dominion won the friendship of the Red Men through application of British principles of fair play. Following wild bursts of chanting, shouting, firing and feasts of horsemanship by the warriors, solemn ceremony introduced the parleys in which the Cree surrendered sovereignty of a vast tract in what is now northern Saskatchewan and Alberta.

In the closing years of the eighteenth century the rival fur companies had raced westward to establish posts across the vast stretches of the prairies and even beyond the Rockies. One of the line of Hudson's Bay "forts" on the north branch of the Saskatchewan was Carlton, above Prince Albert. When the Mounted Police, in 1874, performed their epic march to bring the Queen's law to the prairies, the northern division established a post at Carlton which was to witness stirring events in the years that followed.

Carlton found itself at the very heart of the danger zone in the Spring of 1885. One of the first acts of Riel's provisional government was to demand the surrender of the post by Superintendent Crozier, the police officer in command. Perhaps rashly, but following the "Moonlight" tradition of prompt and fearless action, Crozier sallied forth with a small force of police and volunteers. He was driven back with loss at Duck Lake. Later Carlton, whose site had been chosen for trade and was untenable against a strong foe, was abandoned in favor of Prince Albert.

Peace Foundations In Heart of People, Not Writ on Paper

Dr. Willard Brewster, of Vancouver, Addressing Women's Canadian Club on Pacifists and Peacemakers, Pictures European Fear

"WAR is no longer 'the sport of kings.' . . . Thoughtful men who still believe in war do not believe in it because of its virtue, but as a last resort in case of sheer necessity, for the protection of our national rights, our national property, for assurance against invasion from other people. . . . If another war breaks out in Europe it will not be because of hate between the nations, but because of their sheer fear of each other."

These and many other striking sentences in Rev. Dr. Willard Brewster's eloquent talk on "Pacifists and Peacemakers," given before a big Women's Canadian Club audience at the Empress Hotel yesterday, fitted into his general argument in favor of a peace-building programme.

"We must not only try to prevent war; we must try to build peace," he asserted, pointing out that the really great function being performed by the League of Nations was that it was laying the foundations of peace. Never before had fifty-two nations of the world conspired together to treat a belligerent nation as an outlaw as they were doing at the present time in the case of Italy. This in itself was a hopeful sign that the League of Nations was achieving something.

EUROPEAN SCENE
Recently in Europe he had visited most of the big cities under auspices that gave unique opportunities to meet the representative thinking people of the various countries, and "feel the pulse of Europe." Peace and pacifism were in the minds of everyone. It might seem like quibbling to draw any distinction between pacemakers and pacifists. But there was a distinct difference between keeping the peace and making the peace; one was merely passive, the other an active force which required the creation of the right conditions, good economic conditions.

Pacifism was increasingly popular. At Geneva last summer a group of British youth had made noisy protest when Professor Zimmerman made his address in which he stated there were some conditions under which war was necessary and salutary. The same growing sentiment in favor of pacifism might be seen in the fact that the London press would give front-page position to Lord Lansbury's views when he withdrew from his party because of its attitude on sanctions. Dr. Brewster said.

PACIFISM NOT NEW
Pacifism was not new. For the first two hundred years of its existence the Christian church was the great leader for peace, and many Christians voluntarily died for their refusal to bear arms.

The time when "kings go forth to war" was past. War was no longer the sport of kings. One could not imagine three or four European monarchs deliberately sitting down to study the partition of Poland. No longer was it a test of a man's valor to go into battle. The last great war, where individual heroism was almost lost sight of in the great mass heroism, ended this idea.

WOULD SPRING FROM FEAR
In Europe, Dr. Brewster stated, he had found everywhere a negative reaction to the idea of war. No one wanted it, everyone hated the idea. But while there was no feeling of actual antipathy between nations, there was mutual distrust and suspicion. If another war broke out in Europe, it would spring from this fear. In this connection Dr. Brewster drew a contrast between the atmosphere of London, where one could say what one wanted, and Berlin, where almost automatically one dropped into a constrained way of speaking.

A Jewish rabbi who was to have addressed a meeting which he was attending had shirked the task when arriving at the hotel, he had found the place full of Brown Shirts, that being the day Hitler had made his speech vindicating the action of the Nazis toward the Jews. The whole atmosphere was tinged with fear, and the attitude generally reflected the spirit of the cartoon which, picturing the German discovery that a man who pushed a lion over a mountain was a Jew, blazoned it forth in flaming headlines: "Brutal Jew Attacks Defenceless Lion."

NO SHADOW HERE
It was no special credit to Canada that she had a 3,000-mile boundary without forts or defences. Here one could not visualize the eternal shadow of fear under which the nations of Europe eternally lived. Dr. Brewster found in the circumstances of Hitler's childhood the explanation of how "the iron had entered his soul," and this antagonism had only been exaggerated by the outlaw position forced upon Germany by the Versailles Treaty. Germans maintained that the Peace of Versailles was not a peace at all, but the judgment of a court against an enemy nation.

"We are coming to the point where, realizing the dangers of war,

"We are trying to prevent it," said the speaker. Sir Samuel Hoare, in a recent speech had said that it was not enough to insist, collectively, that war would not occur, or that if it occurred it would be brought to an end. Something more than resource to arms must be found for the adjustment of international differences.

BUILD PEACE

"You cannot expect to have peace in the world so long as down in the heart remain the elements that make for war. We must try to build peace." He had been greatly comforted in finding at Geneva recognition of the fact that the chief value of the League of Nations was not in what it prevented the nations doing to each other, but in what it enabled the nations to do for each other. If the Battle of Waterloo could be won on the playing fields of Eton, why could not peace be won in the same way.

Military war was rooted in economic strife. One felt that in Europe after seeing the queues of German fathers and mothers struggling for their quota of potatoes. There was always the best of food for tourists, while German children cried for potatoes. One was not true to humanity until this whole economic problem, which eventually blossomed out into international war, was settled. The present trouble in Ethiopia illustrated this. Italy needed more territory for her population. The League of Nations, a recent visitor reported, now realized the full responsibility for the present breach of the peace between Italy and Ethiopia was not to be laid at the doors of Italy alone, but on all the world.

UNOCCUPIED AREAS

In closing Dr. Brewster spoke of the enormous unoccupied areas of Australia and Canada. How long could they hope to keep these for their small populations while other countries had thriving multitudes? Mrs. S. J. Willis presided and Mrs. Alan Campbell moved the vote of thanks to the speaker. The musical

Beaux-Arts' Birthday Is Jolly Affair

Members of the Beaux-Arts last night marked the fifth birthday of the society. The celebration took place in St. Ann's Hall, Blanshard Street, which was filled to capacity, the members having the privilege of inviting their parents and friends. Two amusing plays were enjoyed. The first, "Evening Dress Indispensable" by Roland Pertwee, was presented by Miss Orrie Brantfoot, Miss Barbara Lloyd-Young, Miss Lorraine Pendry, Mr. Peter Saxton-White and Mr. Humphrey Toms. The second play, "Rest Cure" by Gertrude Jennings, was given by Mr. Brian Green, Miss Muriel Dunsmuir, Miss Josie Lloyd-Young, Miss Eileen Regan, Miss Mary Lindgren and Mr. Lae McMartin. All artists were excellently cast.

Miss Helen Rogers sang two delightful numbers, "Brown Bird Singing" and "A Bachelor Gay" from the "Maid of the Mountains." She was ably supported at the piano by Mr. Brian Burdon-Murphy.

CUTS HUGE CAKE

Refreshments were served following the programme, the table being centred with the huge birthday cake on which was inscribed "Beaux-Arts 1930-1935." Miss Kathleen Agnew, the oldest patron, in the absence of the honorary president, Mrs. G. W. Weir, cut the birthday cake. The evening concluded with dancing.

Miss Constance Hobbs made an efficient chairman and opened the programme by welcoming the visitors and announcing the names of the new members. Miss Hobbs announced that Mr. Edmond Christopher had suggested that the club show travel pictures and the proceeds go to the club's funds. Mr. Christopher can secure interesting travel pictures for this purpose. The members unanimously voted to support this suggestion. The annual ball will be held at the Empress Hotel on December 28. Tickets were distributed last night to members of the committee.

Handsome Prizes Offered in Show

The Daily Colonist Baby Show will open at the Armories at 2 p.m. next Wednesday. Owing to the tremendous number of entries it has been arranged that each class be taken separately, in this way avoiding any tressome waiting for mother and child.

"A" Class, babies up to six months of age, will be called up at 2 o'clock. "B" Class, those from six months to one year, will be on hand at 3 p.m., while "C" Class, children of from twelve to eighteen months, will be judged from 4 to 5 p.m. The results in each class will be announced immediately the judges have conferred, and the awards will be made at once.

With the number of entries creeping up toward the 200 mark, local babies will have to look to their laurels. Numbers are being registered from Island points, as far north as Fanny Bay, and others are coming in from Ganges Harbor. So widespread has the interest been that The Colonist Baby Show will surpass any previous event of its kind, both in entries and attendance.

Keen competition is certain for the many handsome awards to be given. Cups, merchandise and luxuries are offered by The Colonist and by the local merchants, there being four prizes in each class. A special prize will be awarded to the best pair of twins in the show.

St. Andrew's Ball Will Be Merry Affair

Ever since back in the Dark Ages, Angles, King of the Picts and Scots, on the eve of battle with Athelstan, the Saxon, saw the cross of St. Andrew in the sky and next day went out and soundly trounced his enemy, Scots have been dancing and feasting on St. Andrew's Day. Only these days the Sassenach joins in.

So it is that the St. Andrew's ball on Friday, the second to be held at the Empress Hotel, will be a festive occasion for Scot and Sassenach, military and laymen. Already many have booked tables for the occasion and there are numbers of large parties made up.

Drummers, pipers, exhibition dances and Scottish airs will add to the national spirit and gaiety of the affair and an original note will be struck in the merrymaking when led by Nancy Ferguson and certain guests who will have been coached, to an old and well-known tune, everyone swings into the steps of an Old Country dance and circles the ballroom to a lilting chorus in which in a few minutes later everyone will join.

Saturated in tradition and atmosphere, St. Andrew's ball cannot fail to find a prominent place on the social calendar of old-custom loving Victorians.

Boy Scouts Open Toy Repair Shop On Yates Street

From now until a few days before Christmas, Scouts belonging to the different regiments and around Victoria will be hard at work in the Scout Toy Shop, at 615 Yates Street, repairing and painting toys for children whose parents cannot afford to buy them toys for Christmas.

In order that all the children on the list may receive toys this Christmas, they are still in need of more toys. If they are broken, the Scouts will repair them and they will be put into good shape. Will anyone having any old toys, games, dolls, etc., which they do not want, and unable to bring them to the Toy Shop, kindly telephone G 4322, G 3296 or E 1475, when arrangements will be made to call for them.

Much may be said in favor of the cow, but she is regrettably no planner. Nature designed her to bring forth her young in the spring; she supplies milk copiously at that time, and then becomes more miggardly. Try as we do to get her to change her habits, she still gives appallingly more in June than in January. In order that city people may have enough milk in January, they have to get too much (for the producers, at all events) in June. Milk spoils. Surpluses tend to become chronic. From the standpoint of the planner, this is a rugged individualism gone mad. This is anarchy and chaos, but all this is very hard to explain to the cow.

Christmas Plans Made by Society

Plans for the Christmas work at the Jubilee Hospital were made at a meeting of the Daughters of Pity last evening at the Nurses' Home. The president, Miss Kathleen Roberts, in the chair. The Children's Ward will be decorated on Saturday, December 21, and on Monday, December 23, the annual Christmas party will be held, when Santa Claus will distribute the gifts and Miss Irene Bannerman will have charge of the programme.

A donation was gratefully received from the Fellowship Circle, King's Daughters, of eight woolly bonnets, eight pairs of shoes and two scrap books.

It was reported that the recent bridge party netted $52.25. Miss E. Barrowclough was appointed sewing convener and bids for the Children's Ward were distributed for embroidery. Eighteen members attended the meeting and two new members, Mrs. R. S. Hawkes and Mrs. C. Smith, were welcomed.

Miss M. Tait and Miss Alice Croft were hostesses during the social hour which followed the meeting.

Gladys Glad On Beauty

It's a funny thing but I've found that while woman for years have concentrated on exercises for supple waistlines, slender hips and shapely legs, they have always been neglectful of their arms. They do not seem to realize that arms require attention just as well as hips, waists and legs. And when, through improper habits of living, they begin to acquire excess weight, nine out of ten of them find that a great deal of the unwelcome adipose tissue stores itself on their upper arms, from the elbows to the shoulders.

The upper arms seem to prove the Achilles' heels of a good many females. In this respect, for flabby fat seems to accumulate there so easy, and it's certainly a detriment to any

Witty Kitty

By NINA WILCOX PUTNAM

The girl chum says the Summer engagement has drifted into the "mild flirtation" class now, and pretty soon both parties will have difficulty in remembering it at all.

Jane Dixon Says:

TRYING TO CRUSH YOUNG AFFECTION BY FORBIDDING IT TO EXIST IS AS FUTILE AS ATTEMPTING TO ROLL BACK THE WAVES OF THE OCEAN

Parents who fail to use reason and justice when disciplining their children lay the groundwork for distrust, resentment and eventual revolt. Because a man or a woman is a parent does not permit her or him to practice tyranny on a hapless victim.

Mothers and fathers should realize the fact that their sons and their daughters are reasonable human beings, not automatons born to do their parents' bidding.

A father, caught in a storm of discord caused by the clashing wills of his wife and his daughter, has advised daughter to write to me and get my opinion on the situation.

I suspect that, in the parlance of the day, father is "passing me the buck," but since he has paid me the compliment of requesting an opinion, I'll do the best I can to be a sage and a mediator.

Here are some excerpts from daughter's long letter mapping the situation:

A GOD-FEARING YOUTH

I've been going with Grover for two years. He is the nicest boy I've known—courteous, kind and God-fearing. Sometimes he kisses me, but we've never gone in for the so-called "necking."

The trouble started when my best girl friend and her young man, with whom Grover and I had been chummy, eloped. They kept it a secret except from me. Even Grover didn't know. Now my friend's (Margaret's) mother has found out about the marriage and the newlyweds have moved into a home of their own.

Mother forbade me seeing Margaret again, and that was hard, because we were devoted friends. Mother said I'd envy Margaret her home and I couldn't reason her out of that idea.

Like the husband, hasn't a very good job, and mother thinks the marriage is a "tragedy." Margaret and I are so happy, and if they are willing to get on with a little instead of a lot I think it's their own business. Now mother is convinced Grover and I will stage the same "tragedy." Why, we never even considered marriage. Grover helps his father in his business, and in three or four years will be a real member of the firm. He is a graduate of a military school. He says he'll not marry until he can care properly for a wife and a home.

Mother has forbidden me to go with Grover, has forbidden him to call on me, telephone me or communicate with me in any way.

THEY WENT INTO CONFERENCE

Daughter goes on to tell how she summoned Grover to her home so that the three of them, mother, daughter and the forbidden friend, might come to an understanding.

Mother, exercising her parental authority, took the matter in hand. Harsh words were spoken by daughter. Regrettable words. Writes daughter:

I tried several times to apologize, but I'm not going to crawl and be trifled. We haven't spoken for a couple of weeks. Mother just turns up her nose at mention of Grover's name, and goes around all puffed up and mad. She's accused me of things I haven't done. Anything to keep Grover and I apart.

Here is where father comes in. He felt the storm and did some inquiring. Daughter told him the entire story. Father thinks Grover is a good young fellow. He believes mother is wrong, but hesitates to interfere with her regime. He advised daughter to write to me.

The letter continues: You know, Miss Dixon, we couldn't marry when Grover hasn't even a job. You know young people can enjoy one another's company and be good pals without getting married. Before I cared anything about Grover, mother was always telling me what a fine boy he is, but the minute I showed interest in him she changed. Can it be that she is jealous?

FATHER SHOULD ASSERT HIMSELF

Mother tells everyone I have some silly idea about marriage and she's going to break it up. I could scream sometimes. Well, absence makes the heart grow fonder, and that is the answer to what she's done to Grover and to me. Please try to help me. I get so blue.—E.K.

Answer: I think it's time father took mother in hand and asserted himself as the head of the family. Margaret's marriage may have been impetuous, but there is no disgrace attached to it and no reason why you may not continue to be her good friend. Grover is a clean, upright, straightforward boy, and there is no reason why you should not continue your friendship with him.

The unreasonableness of your mother might very well precipitate the very "tragedy" she is determined to avert. She ought to know, if she doesn't, that to try to crush young affection by forbidding it to exist is like trying to roll back the waves of the ocean by smacking them with a pancake turner.

Perk up, Elizabeth, and try to win mother to your side with persistent reasoning instead of by battle.

WORKS PROJECT IS DESCRIBED

Columbia River Scheme Outlined to Engineers—L. C. Burltup Is President

L. C. Burltup, 1954 Montclair Street, was elected president of the Columbia River Scheme of the Engineering Institute of Canada, at its meeting in the Y.W.C.A. Monday night. Major J. C. MacDonald was reappointed vice-president, while Kenneth Reid was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Other officials chosen included G. M. Irwin and C. D. Schultz as new members of the executive committee, and F. W. Knewstubb, as auditor. H. E. Swan, chairman of the nominating committee, submitted the names, which were all ratified.

O. E. Webb, district chief engineer of the Dominion Water Power and Hydroelectric Bureau, read a paper on "The Columbia River Project, and lantern slides illustrating the entire project were shown. The slides, loaned by the United States Bureau of Reclamation to Mr. Webb, disclosed the work finished to date.

UNEMPLOYMENT PROJECT
In his paper Mr. Webb pointed out that the project at Grand Coulee was primarily an undertaking to provide employment for U.S. jobless. It was at first decided, Mr. Webb continued, to erect a low dam for power purposes. Later the United States Government decided upon a higher dam for irrigation and flood-control purposes.

The plan, said Mr. Webb, was to irrigate 1,200,000 acres of land. Some 30,000 acres would be treated annually. It would be sixty years before the land would be settled, he stated.

The entire area had always been rich in fertile soil, but lack of water had turned the section into somewhat of a desert. A technical outline of the project in detail was presented to the engineers by Mr. Webb. It was said the dam, when completed, would be three times as large as the giant Boulder Dam project in Colorado.

STAGGERING COST
The completed Columbia River undertaking would cost over $400,000,000, an amount more than that spent on the construction of the Panama Canal, declared Mr. Webb.

The work at Grand Coulee was being supervised by the United States Bureau of Reclamation. He expected the low dam to be completed by 1937. Mr. Webb indicated that work on the larger structure and ultimate completion of the huge scheme would start immediately the low dam was completed.

WHY CHALLENGE WAS WITHDRAWN
British Yachtsman Protests Racing For America's Cup Too Expensive For Individual Entries

LONDON, Nov. 26 (AP).—Charles R. Pairey, British yachtsman who has withdrawn a challenge for the America's Cup, protests in an interview in The News Chronicle against the "big money rings that control the America's Cup race."

Pairey withdrew his challenge after learning, he said, that the New York Yacht Club did not wish to race for the historic trophy with class "K" yachts, a smaller type than the class "J" used in the past.

"The race has now been reduced to a contest between expensive yachts which only syndicates can normally afford," the newspaper quotes him.

"American entries all are syndicated, whereas the British yachts are privately entered."

DRIVE OUT THAT COLD WITH GROVES

When you catch cold the sensible thing to do is to treat it promptly and effectively for what it really is—an internal infection requiring internal treatment.

Groves' Bromo Quinine attacks the cold at its source by driving the four necessary things to drive out the cold from the system—

1. It opens the bowels gently but effectively.
2. It combats the cold germs and fever in the system.
3. It relieves the headache and "gritty" feeling.
4. It tones up the system and helps fortify against further attacks.

It is by taking such direct, effective measures quickly that the cold is driven out and nothing is left to develop into something more serious.

For more than forty years Groves' Bromo Quinine has been the favorite of thousands for the prevention and treatment of colds. Your druggist has them, so make sure you get Groves'.

ATTUNED TO THE KINGDOM
Sir,—In your issue of the 16th, Dr. Clem Davies was asked the following question: "How can a person so conduct his life today that he will be in tune when the Kingdom of God is established upon the earth?" I do not know what kind of a reply the esteemed Doctor gave to this question, but as I am extremely interested, and with your kind permission, I would like to tell what little I may know, and would greatly appreciate any correction.

I would suggest that no one living today will be alive at that very wonderful moment of the actual establishment of the Kingdom of God by our Lord Jesus Christ. When it will take place no one can tell, but from the time when the Lord comes for His church, until the Kingdom is set up, may be a long time and many strange happenings will take place.

It was ever in the mind and heart of the blessed God that He might have upon this earth a company of people in whom He could delight, those who would have willingly responded to His love, and walk here in intelligence, dignity and affection. It was the mission of the Lord to this earth to lay the basis and form this company, church or assembly for the pleasure of His God, and thus "preached and showed the glad tidings concerning the Kingdom of God."

In this particular dispensation of the grace of God, the Kingdom is not publicly seen, yet, if we so desire, we may be in the good and living enjoyment of all that the Kingdom may mean to God and to us, morally or spiritually.

If we have appreciation for divine things and honor God with our keen interest and belief, that "Jesus is the Christ the Son of God" and that He died and was raised from the dead, and is now high in exaltation at the right hand of the Majesty on high, and we confess Him as Lord, and in affection desire Him to have His sovereign rights in our souls; then, by the Holy Spirit, the precious elements of the Kingdom of God are placed and maintained within us, and we are in the enjoyment of forgiveness, association with the living character of heaven, intimate knowledge with the thoughts of God and a happy desire to respond to the warmth and wealth of the Father's affections, all blessedly obtained on the basis that we believe on and accept the Lord Jesus Christ as our personal Saviour. If He has "taken away the sin of the world" then He has without doubt brought in what is in the mind and heart of God. Every divine blessing brought about by His death and resurrection, are available to believers, and thus a link with heaven is formed in the soul, and the very precious but unseen elements of the Kingdom placed and maintained by the Holy Spirit in the heart; and in this dark and difficult day the believer in touch with the grace of heaven can intelligently respond to the heart and mind of God. New and wondrous motives, ideals and activities spiritually come to us, when one realizes that men are formed for the pleasure of God. The Samaritans "brought Him (the Lord Jesus) to tarry with them."

It will be a very wonderful day for the human race, regardless of the peculiar dispositions of men, when we singly or collectively adopt this attitude, and thus allow the precious "love of God" to be shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Spirit. We can all be in accord with the mind of God if we so desire, and the problem today is the same as it was in the day when our Lord was upon this earth—there were those "who would not come to Him that they might have life."

Prayerfully and sincerely submitted.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

IMAGINATION IS VITAL
It is my aim in these daily articles, to devote approximately equal space to the technique and to the psychology of contract bridge. Actually, the importance of either can be stressed only at the expense of the other. No player can hope to become expert unless thoroughly versed in both.

Imagination, however, is the technician's double-dummy, the technician must be king, but fortunately this is not the case. And so we have the vast accumulation of deduction, reasoning, implication, and so on, that for want of a better term is known as the "psychology" of the game.

Mathematical precision is a quality greatly to be admired, and possessors of this quality usually manage to reach the front ranks in whatever science or profession they may choose. But in front of the front ranks are those gifted individuals who "stand out" even in crowded company, and these are reverently regarded as geniuses. And, certainly, if one single quality should be credited for so distinguishing them, that quality is imagination.

Nowhere is imagination more consistently rewarded than in bridge. On countless hands, the proper defensive play from a technical angle will serve only to make the declarer's problem more easily solved. Imagination steps in and saves the day.

Of course, imagination is not the prerogative of the defenders alone. In the hand shown below, the declarer used it to save a lost cause.

The bidding:

West opened the six of spades.

The declarer saw at a glance that in addition to his three sure spade and club tricks, three tricks in diamonds would be necessary to fulfill his contract. But he also saw that to clear the diamonds, he must relinquish the lead at least once, and with dummy's three small hearts exposed, it appeared certain that the defenders would shift to that suit, in which case at least four hearts and a diamond must be lost.

He decided that a "swindle" was his best line of play. So he won the first lead with North's king and boldly led the heart eight.

East was somewhat "on the spot." Against certain possible heart holdings by South, he should split his honors—against others decidedly not. He ducked, and South played the jack. West won with the ace king won, and a diamond was led. North playing the jack and East winning with the king. At this point East was faced with another guess. It was impossible to gauge the declarer's heart and club holding, and in view of West's failure to show a five card spade suit (by his first lead of the six and his second of the eight) a club shift looked most propitious.

Declarer won the club in his own hand, and when the second diamond finesse held, claimed nine tricks.

Answer—You should pass. A bid is too apt to make a bad situation worse.

The Romance Racket MARIE BLIZARD

CHAPTER XV

It would have made a good story if Carol's natural grace had been sufficient to have fallen easily into the intricacies of a chorus routine, but it wasn't. She was willing but she was awkward.

His voice hoarse with shouting, exhausted with the day's work, Benny Rubin took her aside when she started to leave, and writing his name on a card, told her to be at Ted Wayland's dancing school at nine in the morning. He'd leave directions for her there.

By that time Carol, exhausted with all the excitement and the late hours of the party the night before, was too tired to question any irregularity that might have arisen in her mind. She made her supper on a bowl of milk and crackers and fell into her bed to dream of herself standing alone on a brightly lit stage, her arms full of flowers.

She smiled as a face in the darkness. It was Owen Craig's, but when she moved toward it, it was Gary Crandall and Manfred Morris who was trying to pull her away.

Rehearsals for "Stellar Performance" were to start in a week. The show was to open May 15. Carol had a week to learn the simple dance steps in every chorus girl's routine. Only a week to make her body supple and that week was a hard, grueling one with every day ending in torture. Her back screamed with pain. Her ankles burned and, when she fell into bed at night, she felt that she had not the strength left to breathe. Had she time during those days or nights to ask herself if it was worth that effort, she who had no overwhelming desire for the theatre, she might have quit, but Carol was taking everything that life offered her in this, new bright era and was finding it exciting.

The rehearsal period began and Carol discovered that that first week was a vacation compared to the weeks that followed. For the dancing, bending, kicking, wheeling, walking did not end with the daylight. Rehearsals went on far into the night and she dragged herself out of bed in the morning drugged with sleep with which she thought she would never get caught up.

That was her whole life. Gary was at White Sulphur. She talked to Isobel on the telephone but she had no time to see her. Ned Banks had called to apologize for not appearing that morning and to ask her if she'd go down to Kentucky for the Derby on a party he was arranging.

As for Manfred Morris, his name was mentioned in awed tones in that company with which she passed her time. She saw him frequently sitting in the darkened house. She saw him riding away from the theatre with Carita Hillman, the singing star of the show. She never saw him to speak to and she dared not call him on the telephone to thank him for the job. He had apparently forgotten her. She was just another girl he wanted in his show and that was that. Carol had no interest in him other than gratitude. And he had none in her.

It didn't occur to Carol that there was anything unusual about a chorus girl being sent to Ted Wayland for special lessons.

On the night of May 15, New York turned out in all its brilliance to welcome the first night of "Stellar Performance." Carol thought she might have had stage fright had she been able to feel anything. The words on the telegram Isobel and

That Body of Yours (By James W. Barton, M.D.)

YOUR CHILD'S EYESIGHT

There are three important conditions which materially aid in preserving good eyesight—good light, good print and good health.

The light should be without shadows, without glare, and without flicker. The proper amount of light is that obtained from a sixty-watt frosted bulb sixteen to twenty inches away from the printed page. A hundred-watt lamp is required when the lamp bulb is two and a half to three feet away.

All light should fall on the printed page and not directly in the eyes. The light should fall from above or slightly behind and over the left shoulder. Light that falls directly in the eye exhausts the nerve of the eye, causing eyestrain.

The second important condition—good print—is available in all school books, which are usually well printed in clear black type. Some books read by school children out of school are badly printed and parents must see to it that their children read well-printed books with fairly large type.

The third important condition—good health—refers to good bodily health as well as to good eye health. And one depends to a very large extent upon the other. Thus all body defects should be corrected and the body built up by play or exercise to insure good health.

The eye is a marvelously delicate and most complex organ, able to take twelve to fourteen pictures every second and send on the complete picture for the brain to understand or interpret. This requires a perfectly working machine or organism.

Now if a perfect eye needs good light, good print and good health, you can readily see that where there is defective vision or eyesight it is even more necessary to have these three important conditions.

Fortunately four out of five school children have perfect vision, but the other one who cannot see the print in his books or blackboard perfectly or only with much effort soon gets tired, loses his interest and gets discouraged because he cannot get his lessons as quickly as the other children. Therefore, parents may prevent eyestrain and trouble at school by seeing that their children use good light, good print, and wear glasses if glasses are recommended by the school authorities.

The above information and advice is from Dr. A. C. Snell, Rochester, New York, in The Sight Saving Review, published by the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

JACK BENNY IN NEW MOVIE ROLE

Capitol Theatre Showing Popular Comedian in "It's in the Air," for Three Days

The most modern stratosphere gondola ever designed was constructed for the thrilling flight sequences in Jack Benny's starring comedy-drama, "It's in the Air," which opens today at the Capitol Theatre.

The gondola, constructed after "The Explorer," which was used in the flight sponsored by the National Geographic Society and the United States Army Corps that took place July 23, in the Black Hills of South Dakota, was built at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios under the supervision of Cadric Gibbons, head art director.

Its construction took thirty days, and it was built by balloon experts so that every detail would be perfect.

The gondola serves as the setting for the thrilling flight of Benny and Ted Healy in the comedy-drama directed by Charles F. Riesner.

Because stratosphere balloons are still in the experimental stage, it was necessary for Gibbons and those connected with the construction of the project to make a thorough study of past flights in order to learn how the gondola should be handled during the filming of the production.

The comedy-drama features a cast including Ted Healy, Una Merkel, Nat Pendleton, Mary Carlisle, Harvey Stephens and Grant Mitchell.

Ben Bernie and all his lads share starring honors with Raft in this picture, which is a musical comedy and thriller.

DOMINION A deluge of letters from the public has persuaded Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer once more to present Norma Shearer's immortal dramatic triumph, "Smilin' Through," hailed by critics and public alike as one of the greatest photoplays ever made. The return engagement of this film classic, which has such stellar personalities as Fredric March and Leslie Howard sharing honors with Miss Shearer, is now at the Dominion Theatre.

These are displayed by a score of models in a specialty number staged by Busby Berkeley. It is the shopping number in which Dick Powell sings to Gloria Stuart "I'm Going Shopping With You."

OPERETTA IS BASED ON SHAW'S COMEDY

The lovely airs and the smart action of that lovely old operetta, "The Chocolate Soldier," will be heard and seen once again at the Royal Victoria Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, December 6, 7 and 8.

Who is there among music lovers that doesn't know and love "My Hero"? It is one of the musical favorites of all times. It made a sensation when the operetta was first produced more than twenty years ago in London. It has remained a favorite throughout the years.

"The Chocolate Soldier" was written by Oscar Straus and is based on George Bernard Shaw's famed satirical comedy, "Arms and the Man." Every once in a while it is revived in London and New York and attracts enormous audiences. Now it is to be revived in Victoria. It has not been performed here in many years.

In the list of principals for this delightful light opera are Kathleen Barracough, Doreen Wilson, Marjery Benson, Dudley Wickett, J. Kent-Fawkes, Fraser Lister, Clifford Prescott and James Mathewson.

SPANISH DANCERS ARE TRUE ARTISTS

"Jose Canino and Tonia de Aragon are true artists," The Vancouver News-Herald, in commenting on their performances, writes. "Both dancers are artists in a high sense; they express what they wish to convey in an unmistakable manner. If dancing single or duo, their performance is well rounded out in every phase. There are no moments in which there is sloppiness or the exercise of mere virtuosity. There is something to communicate: a comment, a joke, a mood, masterly physical control. One may say that they expressed themselves for the self-gratification of the process."

"Juan Lopez at the piano provided a splendid background of accompaniment, sensing the moods and changes with fine precision." These great artists will be seen in Victoria on Saturday, November 30, at the Empire Theatre, under the management of Violet Wilson.

Authorities do not agree as to why holes are found in cactus wood. However, a scientist gives the following explanation which is generally accepted: Cactus cannot afford to have solid wood, because there is not enough fertility and rainwater in the soil to provide for it. Therefore, it is an economy of nature.

HAMPER FUND TO BE STARTED SOON

Saanich Welfare Association Will Conduct Campaign—Playhouse To Assist

A drive will shortly get under way for the Saanich Welfare Association's Christmas Hamper Fund. It was announced yesterday by Mrs. F. F. Osborn, convener of the committee in charge of the arrangements.

The committee, yesterday, stated that the Playhouse Theatre had generously loaned its theatre to the organization for two hours on December 7. A picture show will be given between 10 a.m. and 12 o'clock noon. Admission will be by the donation of canned foodstuffs.

Other details of the drive will be announced later.

Boy Scouts' Toy Shop Opens Here For Annual Work

The Boy Scouts' Christmas Toy Shop, 615 Yates Street, is where Scouts of the city and district are busily repairing toys for poor children, in order that their Christmas might be brighter. Any one interested is welcome to come in and inspect the shop and see the boys at work.

Any old toys will be gladly received at the shop at any time, or will be called for. A telephone call to G 4332, G 3296 or E 1475, and they will be called for, when most convenient.

SAYS CAR RUTS ARE DANGEROUS

Motor Club Committee to Ask For Levelling of Tracks At Dardanelles

Declaring the street car rut at the west approach to the Dardanelles was a danger to vehicular traffic, members of the Victoria Automobile Club safety committee at luncheon yesterday in Speedie's Cafe instructed Secretary T. J. Goodlake to write the City Council requesting the levelling of the tracks at that point.

The letter will also carry a request for improvement in the condition of Pandora Avenue so it will attract more traffic and relieve the rush-hour congestion in the Dardanelles.

Robert Kershaw, chairman of the safety committee, was asked to consult city authorities to make the intersection of Pandora Avenue and Fernwood Road less dangerous. Members pointed out the view of drivers was obstructed at that intersection.

CITY PARKING

A letter setting forth his views on double, angle and half-hour parking was received from Police Chief Thomas Healey. He said the entire system of parking in the city should be reorganized. The letter will be referred to club directors, with the recommendation they take what action they see fit to support the chief in this matter.

Mr. Goodlake favored the city converting a few of their vacant lots in the downtown district into free parking areas.

The meeting was advised the C.P.R. had reserved the northeast end of Belleville Street docks for private cars meeting incoming steamers. This co-operation was secured when the question of the parking conditions in that vicinity was brought up at the last committee meeting.

Members endorsed the efforts of police to discourage cyclists from riding at night without headlight, tail reflector and white tail patches.

GYRO CLUB HAS OPEN MEETING

Business and Entertainment Feature Dinner Gathering of Club Members

The Gyro Club held another of its regular get-together meetings at Spencer's dining-room Tuesday night with a varied and interesting programme was presented for the entertainment of members and their guests.

With Waldo Skillings, Jr. president, in the chair, the meeting opened with the presentation of reports for the committees in charge of the Christmas hamper fund which is one of the principal undertakings of the club at this season of the year. Last year the club was responsible for the arrangement and distribution of hampers to the needy throughout Victoria.

TALK ON CRIME

The guest speaker was Staff Sergeant Roger Peachey, of the British Columbia Provincial Police. Mr. Peachey is a member of the detective staff of the criminal investigation department and his talk was on "The Inside Story of the Police Work in British Columbia." His address was intensely interesting and covered a wide range of criminal work from the minor cases with which the police have to deal to the more serious offences which require the concentration of all branches of the service. He detailed some of the duties of police constables and also referred to the importance of identification records and their part in the apprehension of criminals in various parts of the world.

Neil Grant was in charge of the entertainment part of the programme and a number of solos were given by Clifford Prescott. The entertainment consisted of a fish story contest and a spelling bee under the direction of William Hudson. The evening concluded with a bridge tournament with about twelve tables in play.

"SAGITTARIUS"

If November 27 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. and from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m., from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. and from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. Selfish indifference, in so far as the safety and comfort of others are concerned, will be a great mistake this day, so guard against it. Friendships may blow hot or cold, according to the varying state of mind of the average individual. Be careful you give no provocation, when you meet friends in either a social or business way. Unless handled with the greatest care money perhaps will be wasted. The "hit and miss" sort of impromptu entertaining possibly will prove more expensive than those which have been carefully planned. So if you are wise you will know what you are going to do, before extending or accepting invitations. Married and engaged couples, and those who have pledged their allegiance to some one person, must be diplomatic if they would keep peace.

If a woman and November 27 is your birthday, Nature probably has endowed you with a marvelous amount of animation. You ought to have a great deal of physical endurance. Mentally alert, you can be very entertaining if you wish to be. As a wife you need have no fear of becoming tiresome to your husband, if you exert yourself to keep him interested in congenial topics. Try not to have interests that will interfere with your home life. Home after all should be the haven in which to seek refuge from the troubles, trials and tribulations of a turbulent world. Teaching, music, painting, writing and clerical work are among the activities that should provide you with a congenial vocation.

The child born on November 27 may be expected, when it reaches its teens, to display pronounced traits of courage, honesty and resourcefulness. Its frankness will win it many friends. Its willingness to forget and to forgive is likely to prove a preventive against making enemies.

National Baseball League Takes Over Boston Franchise

Financial Difficulties Force Club Owners to Take Drastic Step in Assisting Braves—To Consider Any Proposals Submitted Before Annual Meeting, to Be Held December 10

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (AP).—The Boston franchise was formally taken over tonight by the club owners of the National Baseball League at the climax of a protracted and involved financial war.

Prick said the action was taken because of the failure of the Boston National League Baseball Company to fulfill its contractual obligations over an extended period of time.

The league president said he would "consider any proposals submitted in writing before December 10," the date of the annual league meeting in Chicago.

He said no proposals had been received, but the league guaranteed there would be no break in the operation of the Braves, regardless of whether or not the club was purchased.

BADLY IN RED

While the club has been in financial difficulties for several years, its plight first came to the attention of the league and the public last winter in the now-famous "dog-racing dispute."

Despite the assistance of the league in averting that threat, the Braves could not pull out of the red and in August, Emil Fuchs was forced to resign as president of the club and turned over control to Charles F. Adams, majority stockholder and operator of Boston Bruins in the National Hockey League. Adams then announced the club was "on the market."

WANTS STATES AT OLYMPIAD

Germany Is Anxious, But Committee Member Opposes

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (AP).—Ernest Lee Jahncke, one of the United States members of the international Olympic committee, said today he would do "all I can to persuade my fellow Americans that they ought not to take part" in the Olympic Games "if they are held in Nazi Germany."

Jahncke aired his views on the current Olympic dispute in letters to Count Henri Baillet-Latour, president of the international Olympic committee, and Dr. Theodore Lewald, chairman of the German Olympic organizing committee.

"It will be a calamity, in my opinion," said Jahncke in a letter to Dr. Lewald, "if America does participate, for it now appears as if the Olympic ideal can be saved only by the refusal of Americans and of other peoples to have anything to do with the games if they are held in Germany."

"Although it grieves me to have to say so, I simply do not believe that the German pledges with respect to Jewish athletes and other so-called non-Aryan athletes, have been kept."

Black Hawks' Defence Takes a Rest

Revealing a rare moment in the hectic lives of this quartette of bruising hockey players, who comprise the defence brigade of Chicago Black Hawks in the N.H.L., opposing players often wish they'd take a rest more often, but these lads don't ease up till they get off the ice. Looks as if they've had a busy evening at that. Left to right, they are: Marty Burke, Art Coulter, Alex Levinsky and Art Wiebe.

Detroit's Olympics in Fifth Straight Victory

Defeat Windsor Bulldogs in Dull International Fixture, 2-1—Syracuse Hand Shamrocks Another Setback—Falcons Triumph

DETROIT, Nov. 26 (AP).—Detroit's fast-traveling Olympics won their fifth straight International Hockey League game here tonight, scoring two goals in the final period to trim the Windsor Bulldogs, 2-1.

Art Groux tallied both Detroit goals. After the first two periods in which slow and dull hockey was played, Groux scored thirty-two seconds after the final period began on a double pass in which Pettinger and Deacon figured. Ten minutes later Groux's hard shot caught the corner before Goalie Robertson could reach the puck. Don Smillie saved Windsor from a shutout, scoring at 10:32 on a double pass which gave assists to McKenzie and Webster.

Each team scored in the second period. Vic Ripley sent the Falcons ahead, bagging a pass from Speedy Groh, veteran wingman obtained by Cleveland from London Tecumsehs. Two minutes later Nick Wasmie tied the score for Rochester on a pass from Ralph Rennie.

Lloyd Gross had a clear shot at the cardinal net in the third period when Goalie Vernon Forbes came out to stop him. Gross fell a few feet out, but he managed to hook it away as Forbes tried to fall on it, and pushed the puck home.

ROCHESTER, Nov. 26 (AP).—Rochester Cardinals went a little deeper into the cellar of the International Hockey League's Eastern division tonight, losing a 2-1 decision to Cleveland Falcons, last-place team of the Western section.

HOKEY SIDELIGHTS

BY RAY COLLET

AULD Erin gave major league hockey her first and best gift when she sent Jack Riley out into the world. There are players from about every country on the globe under the big hockey tent, but the blond, pink-cheeked forward who came from the Pacific Coast to grab a job with Montreal's Flying Frenchmen is the first bona fide Irishman to make the grade.

His professional debut was amusing. Jaunts to Seattle, for exhibition games while he was playing for the King George team of Vancouver.

He is a professional card and forced the Irish into paying ranks. A fractured wrist gave him a peculiar twist to his shot that makes him a successor to Carson Cooper as the big league "shovel."

He is cashing in on those "breaks" in major company. Though Canadians have traded Riley this season, he is still very much in the league, and Boston's third line will likely have the rangy poke-check as their centre. And when opposing defencemen try to steal the puck he's carrying, they will think he has a glue pot on his stock.

Veterans gave Riley a "ride" when he came up from the International League, but they soon found out he could "take it." There's plenty of big, hard muscles under his loosely knit frame, and when bumps are being handed around, blonde just doesn't take a back seat. He can hand out a few himself, despite his 155 pounds.

FIST FIGHT MARKS MAROONS' 4-1 WIN OVER BLACK HAWKS

Marty Burke and Baldy Northcott Come to Blows After Bell Ends First Period—Seventeen Penalties Handed Out—Leafs Nose Out Bruins And Rangers Blank Americans, 1-0

MONTREAL, Nov. 26 (AP).—Montreal Maroons blasted Chicago Black Hawks out of the National Hockey League's unbeaten class tonight when they sped to a 4-1 triumph in a wild and scrappy game that saw seventeen penalties meted out, three of them misconduct affairs.

A flat fight between Marty Burke and Baldy Northcott after the bell had ended the first period kept them out of action for ten minutes each during the second, and Hooley Smith got the third misconduct for talking back to Referee Mike Rodden because he was put off for roughing Art Coulter.

Earl Robinson blazed the first goal past Mike Karakas in the first period after coming in like a streak to take Joe Lamb's pass out from the corner. Hooley Smith made a brilliant solo play to slip the puck between Art Wiebe and Alex Levinsky then round Wiebe and go in to draw Karakas for the second marker.

The Hawks scored their second period goal with the veteran Howie Morenz leading the attack. He streaked in to pass to Ed Ouellette, who flipped it back to Paul Thompson for a drive that beat Billy Beveridge all the way.

Herbie Cain scored the third Maroon marker in the first minute of the third period. Smith wound up the scoring with his second goal of the night less than three minutes from the end.

LEAFS BREAK STREAK

BOSTON, Nov. 26 (AP).—Toronto Maple Leafs broke their three-game losing streak here tonight by out-battling their old-time rivals, the Boston Bruins, for a 2-1 triumph in a bruising, battering game.

These two rugged hockey forces punished each other through almost thirty-six scoreless minutes before Harvey Jackson put the Leafs out front by successfully completing a combination play with Charlie Conacher and Red Horner.

Early in the third frame Horner cracked the Boston defence and drove a hard close-up shot that pulled Tiny Thompson out of the Boston cage. As the goalie sprawled on the ice, he was struck on the head by one of the sticks in the lively scrimmage that broke out in front of his net. Before he could get back to his station, Pep Kelly hooked the loose puck off the right boards and drove it into the empty cage to clinch the game for the Leafs.

RANGERS TRIUMPH

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (AP).—Butch Keeling took a tip from his race horses tonight and came through in the home stretch to give New York Rangers a 1-0 victory over the Americans in their first intra-city struggle of the National Hockey League season.

Charley Mason did the jockeying for Butch, eluding the American defence and putting the puck in position for the winning shot after seven minutes of the final period had elapsed. Mason drew Goalie Roy Worters out of the cage by faking a shot, then dropped the disc where Keeling, tearing down the middle at a furious pace, could flip it over the netminder's shoulder.

The Amerks had the better of the argument through the greater part of the game, but couldn't put the puck past both Ching Johnson and Goalie Davey Kerr. A concerted American drive just before the finish produced a penalty shot for the losers when Johnson fell on the puck to keep Eddie Wiseman from shooting.

Wiseman and Manager Red Dutton were outstanding among the Americans.

RANGERS TRIUMPH

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (AP).—Butch Keeling took a tip from his race horses tonight and came through in the home stretch to give New York Rangers a 1-0 victory over the Americans in their first intra-city struggle of the National Hockey League season.

Charley Mason did the jockeying for Butch, eluding the American defence and putting the puck in position for the winning shot after seven minutes of the final period had elapsed. Mason drew Goalie Roy Worters out of the cage by faking a shot, then dropped the disc where Keeling, tearing down the middle at a furious pace, could flip it over the netminder's shoulder.

The Amerks had the better of the argument through the greater part of the game, but couldn't put the puck past both Ching Johnson and Goalie Davey Kerr. A concerted American drive just before the finish produced a penalty shot for the losers when Johnson fell on the puck to keep Eddie Wiseman from shooting.

Wiseman and Manager Red Dutton were outstanding among the Americans.

Remember When

(Twenty-Five Years Ago)

VANCOUVER, Nov. 26.—In one of the greatest exhibitions of Rugby football ever witnessed on local fields, Vancouver played a drawn game with the choice of Victoria today. The score was eight points each. At halftime the score was a goal and a try in the home team's favor, and the three thousand spectators, who gathered at Brockton Point grounds to witness the encounter, were mostly of the opinion that Vancouver would emerge victorious and thereby execute vengeance for the defeat which they sustained in the capital. Fate, however, ordained otherwise, for upon the resumption of play the Victoria aggregation put up a stellar game and managed to equalize the score, they also securing a converted goal and a try.

Results of yesterday's soccer fixtures follow:

First Division

Victoria West 2, Garrison 0.
North Ward 4, Equilmalt 1.
Foresters 1, J.B.A.A. 1.

Second Division

North Ward 4, Victoria West 0.
Beacon Hill 2, Fifth Regiment 0.
Baraca 5, Garrison 0.

TACOMA CAGERS TO OPPOSE DOMINOES SATURDAY

Hidleberg Barons Secured for Game Against Victoria

Eddie Grant, Former Member of Gilmore Oil and Olsen's Swedes, Leading American Quintette Against Dominion Champions—Visiting Personnel Announced—Two Prelims

ED by Eddie Grant, eagle-eyed sharpshooter, who wrought havoc in the local camp last year, as a member of the Gilmore Oil squad, by his dazzling exhibition from the "bucket" position, Hidleberg Barons, of Tacoma, were secured yesterday by Secretary Frank Elliott, of the Victoria and District Basketball League, as opponents for the Victoria Dominoes, Canadian monarchs, Saturday night, at the High School gymnasium. In the opening game, Pantorium and Kreges will clash in a regular women's division fixture at 7:15, and they will be followed by Trade-Ais and Kingham-Gillespie, two clever intermediate "A" quintettes, and then comes the big attraction.

With the basketball fever catching again as the season progresses, Secretary Elliott communicated with Manager Ed Lipke, of the Tacoma ballhandlers, yesterday, by long distance telephone, and when the conversation terminated, the United States aggregation were lined up for this week's game. To date the Tacomans have registered seven straight victories in the Tacoma City League, and according to their manager, will give the Dominoes a run for their money from the opening whistle.

GREAT PLAYER

Victorians well remember Grant for his spectacular exhibition here for twelve months ago, with the Oilers. Grant, who performs on the firing line, ran wild against the Dominoes (alias Blue Ribbons). He sank basket after basket from the famous "bucket" play, which was first introduced here by Windsor-Walkerville Alumni three seasons ago, in the Canadian final. Grant is one of the cleverest cagers to play here. He disposes of the ball in a flash, and he is a constant worry when he is parked under the opposition hoop. Victoria's back division will have to keep a sharp eye on him throughout the forty minutes. Before coming to Seattle, Grant toured the States with the noted Olsen's Swedes.

Holding down the centre position will be a chap named Priddy, who boasts of 6 feet 4 inches. Art Chapman, local ace, will have a busy evening keeping pace with him, especially when it comes to getting that ball from the jump. Flanking Priddy will be Grant and Bud Crowe, a former member of the Tacoma Sun Life, a team which played here several years ago. Crowe was a slip of a kid then, and since has developed into a first class performer. Neil McDougal, "Hoof" Gibson and Balcom will share the defence duties, while Vern Johnson and Dean Jack are the other forwards. The Dominoes are well acquainted with Johnson and Priddy, as most of them played against these two stars in the Seattle P-I tournament.

Manager Lipke is known to local basketballers. When the Athletic Park was renovated some years ago, it was Lipke who had the honor of crashing out two homers over the centrefield netting. He is the only ball player who has conquered the wall since the grandstand was moved back where it now stands.

DOMINOES READY

Dave Nicol, local mentor, will have his regular squad in uniform. The only injury in the Dominoes camp is Alex Kinnear, former Kan-sas City lad, who is troubled with a sore leg. However, Kinnear will be on hand, as he is rapidly recovering. Peden is fully recovered from his hip injury, while the rest of the boys are in fine condition. Chuck and Art Chapman, "Porky" Andrews, "Red" Martin, Jack Modishaw, Alex McKeachie and Ollie Goldsmith will be on hand. And another thing, the Dominoes expect to trot out in their flashy new uniforms, which are a treat to sore eyes.

Soccer Activities

A meeting of the Victoria City second division football team will be held at 848 North Park Street this evening at 7:30 o'clock. All players are requested to attend.

Members of the first and second division Victoria West soccer squads are requested to attend a workout tomorrow evening at the clubrooms at 8 o'clock.

Langford Offered Job By Mayor

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (AP)—Sam Langford, the Nova Scotian negro, who was a terror of the prize ring before punches dimmed his sight, visited Mayor Fiorello La Guardia today and got the promise of a job.

The old heavyweight recently was seriously injured when he was struck by a taxi in Harlem. While recovering in hospital, Langford received a note from the mayor asking him to call at City Hall when he was discharged. He did, and the mayor promised to put him to work.

"I don't know what the job will pay," said Sam, "but if it's only $10 that'll be something."

Some pieces of shooting stars (meteors) do fall on the earth and specimens are kept in various museums. But usually when a meteor goes flying through the atmosphere the friction between the two is sufficient to melt it, and nothing but dust reaches the earth.

BOB KRUSE TO MEET BROOKS IN MAIN BOUT

Oregon Pachyderm Signed For Saturday's Grappling Card at Tillicum Gym

Colorful Bob Kruse, Oregon pachyderm, who has made more appearances in this city than any other heavyweight in the bone-bending business, will return to the Tillicum gymnasium Saturday evening, to appear in the top bout of Promoter Fred Richardson's weekly grappling programme. Kruse, who has recently returned from a successful invasion of South Africa, will climb over the ropes to battle "Rocky" Brooks, former Victoria heavyweight, in the scheduled eight-ten-minute-round main event.

Brooks, in his homecoming appearance last Saturday, defeated Baptiste Paul, Saanich Indian, by the odd fall in the semi-windup. The former Victoria squirmmer pinned Paul's shoulders to the mat in the third and last rounds, and showed that he has lost none of his old-time speed and stamina in the mat game. The Indian's only fall was awarded to him in the fourth round, when Brooks, after being warned by Referee Griffin, insisted on fouling.

WELL KNOWN HERE

Kruse needs no introduction to Pacific Coast followers of the grappling pastime. Clever, rugged and fond of handing out the rough stuff, Kruse soon has the fans ready to tear up the seats and toss them at him. The Oregonian has a large variety of holds at his disposal, and specializes in wristlocks to such an extent that he has won for himself the name of "Wristlock King." Inside the ropes Kruse is, literally speaking, a "wild man," but in his street attire is a good fellow well met.

His return engagement with Brooks should be a lively affair from start to finish, and unless Kruse has changed his tactics, there will be plenty of fireworks when he climbs over the ropes to battle the former local pachyderm.

Stock and Bond Prices Easy at New York Mart

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (AP).—Sellers again outpulled buyers in the stock market tug-of-war today.

A number of active issues gave up 1 to more than 3 points each. Declines were on a somewhat broader front than in the previous session, with average declines greater, but shares changing hands were more than 1,000,000 less than on Monday.

The Associated Press average of stocks lost 9 of a point, at 54.5. The thirty industrials led the downward procession with a drop of 14 points at 73.0, while the fifteen rails lost only 3 of a point, and the utility division 5 of a point.

Periods of pressure during the day's dealings found the market showing a tendency to slow up perceptibly. Turnover in the stock exchange was 2,963,510 shares.

Domestic business news of a kind generally calculated to encourage the bullish forces continued. The fact appeared to be offset, most Wall Street experts felt, by the approach of the critical Parliamentary test of the Laval Government in France and the United States Thanksgiving holiday, both Thursday. Realizing and a temporary side-lines position appeared attractive to many.

Utilities stocks weathered the reaction as well or better than most groups. They did not appear to be unduly unsettled by the filing of a bill of complaint in Federal District Court here by the S.E.C. against Electric Bond & Share and some of its affiliates seeking to enforce observance of registration provisions in the 1933 Utility Act. At the same time North American Company instituted a suit against the commission attempting to prevent it from enforcing the law.

A feature of the day's corporate news, which bore out the predictions heard frequently in Wall Street recently, was the number of important railroads reporting sharp increases in October net operating income compared with the same month of 1934. Among them were Great Northern, Norfolk & Western, South Railway and St. Paul. Shares of all these, however, were unchanged to a point or so lower.

Small fluctuations and a tendency toward slightly lower levels persisted on the corporate bond market.

Utility Power & Light was a specially firm spot at 54, up 3 points. Further losses among Italian and French bonds were features of the European section of the foreign list.

WHEAT PRICES DROP SHARPLY

Profit-Taking Sends Values Down One Cent—Other Markets Weak

WINNIPEG, Nov. 26 (AP).—Price tumbles in wheat at Liverpool encouraged selling on the grain market here today, leaving futures 1 to 1-4 cents a bushel lower at the close.

Profit-takers were active, nullifying meagre support offered by export sales aggregating 300,000 bushels of Canadian wheat.

November closed at 86 5/8. December 86 to 86 1/8. May 86 7/8, and July 86 1-8 to 1-4 cents.

Liverpool closed with net losses of 1 3/4 to 2d. while Chicago was sharply lower.

Cash grains trading was quiet. Coarse grains declined.

HOWARDALTHOUGH HE HAS NEVER HAD ANY ENGINEERING TRAINING,
BENNY HOWARD IS RECOGNIZED
AS AMERICA'S LEADING RACE
PLANE DESIGNER.HIS EARLY FAME
WAS MADE BY TWO TINY RACERS, CALLED
"MIKE" AND "IKE",
WITH 200 H.P. ENGINES
THEY SHOWED
BETTER THAN 225
MILES PER HOUR.HIS LATEST CREATION IS
"MISTER MULLIGAN", A FOUR PLACE CABIN PLANE WHICH WON BOTH THE BENDIX AND
THOMPSON TROPHY
RACES AT CLEVELAND
THIS PAST
SEPTEMBER.
IT DOES BETTER THAN 250 M.P.H.

BENNY HOWARD is a living example of the fact that one does not have to graduate from a technical school to be a successful designer. He barely finished high school, yet today he stands out as America's most consistently successful racing plane designer. His creations were outstanding at the National Air Races in Cleveland this year. His "Mister Mulligan" won this year's outstanding race events in the unlimited class.

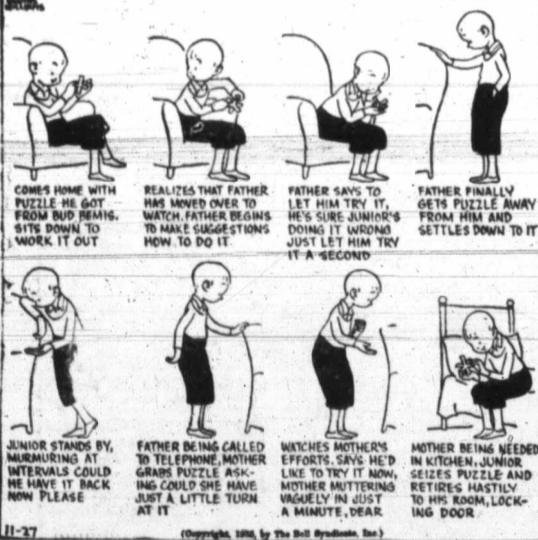

Benny is a superb pilot as well. His early fame came in the small ship field. His tiny racers, "Mike" and "Ike" win consistently every year. They carry either four or six-cylinder inverted or air-cooled engines in fuselages barely large enough to house the engine. The pilot must be assisted into his cockpit with a shoe horn. Tiny landing wheels on the spindly-legged landing gear further help to cut down the head resistance. Howard has been the shining exponent of the thought that we may get speed without using brute power alone.

YOUR SINS ARE SURE TO FIND
YOU OUTIn one form or another, this warning is fairly sure to be found in a great many of the sermons which are preached the world over.Nine people out of ten, asked to use their best judgment in guessing at the inspiration for the use of this line, would pardonably choose the Bible. In hazarding this selection, they would be in error.Surprisingly, the source of this expression—which carries with it all the hall marks of having come from the great book—is from none other than the Greek pagan, Homer's Odyssey IX, in which it was used in the same sense that it has enjoyed all through the centuries.That is, sin cannot be concealed forever.A coconut shy is a form of sport, played with an outfit of coconuts set up, as by a strolling fakir, to be thrown at with sticks.

DEFENDANT IS NOW PLAINTIFF

Mohan Singh Seeking Damages From Fellow-Countrymen for Prosecution

The Supreme Court, with Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson presiding, was occupied all day yesterday with the proceedings in a consolidated action brought by Mohan Singh against two defendants, Kirpa and Karma Chand, fellow East Indians.

The action is one in which the defendants are alleged "to have malevolently and without reasonable and probable cause, prosecuted the plaintiff by swearing to an information charging the plaintiff with having on or about February 28, 1930, at Great Central Lake, with intent to defraud and by false pretences, obtained from Karma Chand, $800."

The charges are based on proceedings that took place in the city police court when Magistrate Jay dismissed on April 26, 1935, the charges laid against Mohan Singh. The defendant in the police court, who is now the plaintiff in the action in the Supreme Court, alleges that "the last sufficient ground in his reputation and who in mind, as a result of the police court proceedings, and he also sets out that he has been held up to contempt and to ridicule, and has been put to great expense as a result."

CLAIMS OVER $4,000

He claims, as a result, general damages to the extent of $2,000 in each case and to expenses of $142.60.

The case for the plaintiff is about completed. Some evidence concerning the bank account of the plaintiff is still to be heard this morning. P. C. Elliott appears for the plaintiff, with R. C. Lowe acting for the defendants.

The evidence taken yesterday with the exception of the plaintiff's testimony all required to be interpreted, which prolonged the proceedings.

The evidence includes a number of matters which are not directly connected with the transaction, but which have to do with other business enterprises with which the plaintiff was associated.

George Moras Makes Twenty-Five Foot Jump—Prepares for Car Crash

Victoria's newest stunt man is George Moras, who jumped twenty-five feet off a dummy pier at the Willows grounds recently, and is soon to be called upon to crash an antiquated car.

In making the leap he was doubling for David Manners, male lead in the Central Films production, "Stop, Look and Love," which is being produced at the Willows. In the automobile crash will wear a wig and take the place of Maxine Doyle, feminine star of the picture.

Shooting of a wedding scene at the studio was the feature of yesterday's work, which also included the taking of pictures inside a train built at the Willows.

Within a few days, when the weather is favorable, the airplane scenes, with Ernest Ewe and Cecil Ewe flying the machines, will be taken.

It is planned to complete the film by the end of the week, officials state.

SAYS OFFICIALS TO INVESTIGATE

Tom Uphill, Labor M.P.P., Pleaded With Interview on Unemployment With Government

Assurance was given him and his delegation Monday by the Provincial Government that it would investigate the unemployment problem of Fernie and send two officials to meet with committees of the district, Tom Uphill, Labor M.P.P., for Fernie, stated with a smile at the Dominion Hotel. Members of his delegation were J. Carter and J. Heiste, also of Fernie.

Mr. Uphill said the Government had given a sympathetic hearing to his case. He declared the unemployment situation in Fernie was one of the most serious in the province. The coal mines, once the mainstay of the city, employing 1,700 men, now only could give work for 130 men two days a week, and barely produced in a month what they formerly produced every day. As a result, businessmen, big and small in the district, were suffering.
